Bill Muir Loses Heart-Breaker; Beaten by Last Mile

FEELS FINE TODAY

Still with his Juan de Fuca whiskers, marathon swimmer Bill Muir was feeling fine today after his tremendous 10-hour, near-successful try at the strait.

ONE KILLED AS PROP FLIES OFF TCA PLANE

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—One person was reported dead, five others injured, when a Trans-Canada Air Lines Vickers Viscount made an emergency landing at Windsor airport early this afternoon.

Reports from witnesses on the airport were that the aircraft, the new English-made turbo prop liner, threw one propeller in flight, on its way into Windsor, and parts of the spinning prop tore into the side of the fuselage.

Names of the dead person and those injured were not immediately known.

The injured included a man and his wife and a child.

Speaker Accedes To PM's Request

'My Confidence Is Unshaken', St. Laurent States in House

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent announced today he feels Rene Beaudoin should continue as Speaker of the Commons and that Mr. Beaudoin has agreed to do so.

"My confidence in Mr. Speaker is unshaken," Mr. St. Laurent said at the opening of today's House sitting, to a storm of applause from Liberal benches.

He said he has conferred with the 44-year-old Speaker and found him "willing to subordinate his personal feelings to his duty to parliament and the country, and to continue in the office in which he has served with great distinction."

The statement of the prime minister, who returned to Ottawa Saturday from the London conference of Commonwealth prime ministers, was the government's reply to Speaker Beaudoin's tender of resignation last Monday.

His statement brought a shouted reply from an unidentified Opposition member: "The Liberals are yellow."

Speaker Beaudoin had said last week he wanted to resign as soon as possible "to regain my full freedom of speech" after Progressive Conservative and CCF charges that he was no longer impartial.

Mr. St. Laurent said it is not hard to understand the reaction of any man, regardless of his office, who feels he has been unfairly charged and who has been unable to reply. All would sympathize with that desire. It had been what Speaker Beaudoin wanted to achieve by his offer of resignation.

The prime minister said that the offer, however, does not constitute the formal act required as a resignation.

To Vote Strike

LONDON (Reuters)—Leaders of 15 trade unions decided today to recommend an official strike of 50,000 employees of the British Motor Corporation's Austin-Morris concern in protest against the dismissal of 6,000 men.

MPs CALL CRUMP ON BOXCAR SHORTAGE

OTTAWA (CP)—The Commons agricultural committee voted today to call President N. R. Crump of the CPR to answer charges the railway failed to deliver a sufficient number of boxcars over a recent six-week period for the movement of western grain.

Mr. Crump now is travelling in Europe and the committee decided he could designate a company official to represent him.

The decision to call Mr. Crump was made after Transport Controller Roy W. Milner told the committee last Friday that between March 15 and April 30 the CPR had let him down badly when he had requested an increased flow of boxcars.

Fake Abductors Try To Steal Ransom Money

NEW YORK (UP)—Two men have confessed they posed as the kidnappers of five-week-old Peter Weinberger, lured his mother to a Sunday night rendezvous and attempted to steal the $5,000 ransom she carried, police said today.

Assistant District Attorney Thomas Cullen of Queens County said "so far as we have determined, they are not the kidnappers."

He said they will be charged with attempted extortion, carrying a possible five to 10-year prison sentence on conviction, and with giving false information in a kidnapping, which carries a five to 15-year penalty.

The men summoned Mrs. Betty Weinberger, 33, by telephone from her Long Island home to a New York City rendezvous, Cullen said. They attempted to make contact with her there but were frightened away, he said. Cullen said they had told her on the telephone that she would find her infant son in a nearby Catholic church after she paid the money.

Four Killed In Accidents

VANCOUVER (BUP)—British Columbia's warm, sunny weekend claimed four lives in highway and drowning accidents.

In addition, a Vancouver man was killed in a car crash in North Dakota.

Lance-Bombardier Edward Magnuson, 21, 1153 Melville, Vancouver, was killed in North Dakota when the car in which he was riding with three other soldiers from Camp Shilo, Man., collided with a second vehicle.

Leonard Edgar Williams, a 22-year-old sawmill laborer from Wilson Creek, was killed instantly at midnight Saturday in a two-car crash near Sechart.

Walter Ivan, 40-year-old Wood-fibre resident, drowned when the boat in which he was fishing with two companions capsized in Goose-neck Lake. The other two men reached shore safely.

Terence William Knox, 25, of Oliver, was killed Saturday night near Princeton, when his car collided with a five-ton truck travelling in the opposite direction.

All-Star Baseball Pitchers Named

(See Story Page 6)

WASHINGTON (UP)—Mickey Mantle of the New York Yankees will start in Tuesday's all-star baseball game, and the starting pitchers will be Billy Pierce of the Chicago White Sox and Bob Friend of the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Mantle's status and the identity of the starting pitchers were announced today at a joint American National League news conference.

Friend will be the first Pittsburgh pitcher ever to start an all-star game. He has a record of 11 victories and seven defeats so far this year.

Vancouver Racing To Switch Tracks

VANCOUVER—Owing to the accident to Marpole Bridge, horse racing at Lansdowne track on Lulu Island will be suspended after today's program.

There will be no program Tuesday but racing will be resumed Wednesday at Exhibition Park.

40 Die in 'Quake'

ATHENS, Greece (AP)—Earthquake and repeated tidal waves struck the Aegean Islands off southern Greece today, killing at least 46 persons.

The brunt of the quakes was felt by the Island of Thera (Santorini), where 36 persons were reported dead, and Ios, where at least 10 were said to have perished.

Weather Ideal But Tides and Cold Win

By TONY DICKASON

"I thought he was crazy, for a time." But Josephine changed her mind.

Husband, Bill Muir, 37-year-old Saanich surveyor, early this morning proved he has the potential to beat Juan de Fuca.

He fought 10 terrific hours, to be pulled from the water about a mile from the American shore.

Bill was almost unconscious. "It was pretty grim. Yeah! I was in bad shape," he said today as he talked he walked, and stretched. Failure to do this would have meant muscles binding.

Bill is 220 pounds of muscle. His valiant attempt on the 47-degree waters of Juan de Fuca was his third this year. He's hit the turbulent tides eight times altogether. Each bid has been unsuccessful, but a few hours ago he established a new record for which the world's top swimmers can shoot.

He dived in at Saxe Point, Esquimalt, at 2:03 p.m. Sunday and was hauled aboard CKDA's Chatham Chief at 12:07 a.m. Monday.

"What beat me was bucking a flood tide off the gravel pit. I missed the back eddy by an hour."

Bill himself is disillusioned. "There's no glory in it," he said.

For his swim attempts, he's been taking time off his holidays from Saanich municipality.

"Now I'm broke. Maybe I'll attempt the Jaycee mass swim later."

He swam 14 miles the day before, from Albert Head to a point 14 miles from Victoria, and from Saxe Point to Albert Head. He did this in two stages, at 11:30 a.m. and 3:30 p.m.

In the Sunday swim Bill stroked a constant 26 to 30 per minute, breast and side stroke. He varied "to relieve the monotony."

Big Ben, Ove Helped Out

No man to talk about himself, Bill plugged his friends.

"I want to thank my trainer Bud, and the radio station for being so patient with me. And Big Ben Laughren and Ove Witt."

Strait challenger Ben Laughren and Ove Witt, coach and manager, were aboard CKDA's vessel. It was Ove who worked over Bill's sore body when he was pulled aboard.

Despite all the fortitude in the world, Bill went under twice within minutes of the end.

"I wouldn't come out, until absolutely beaten, water bruised and suffering. Aboard the Chatham Chief he was wrapped in blankets and fed two sandwiches. Two vessels accompanied the swimmer, George Polson's Wen Sue and the radio boat."

Bill shook his head when asked about Marilyn Bell, due here in mid-July for a strait bid.

Body Ready to Quit, Mind Not

"If she can stand the water hanging," he said, leaving his opinion hanging.

Sincerity of the swimmer is tops.

Said he: "My body was ready to come out of the water at Albert Head, but my mind wasn't. I had to muster courage to stay in."

To try and beat the cold, he was covered with whale grease. It didn't work.

Strange thing about strait swimming. The men in the water get periods of violent depression. It hit Bill off Albert Head. They feel so grim they want to sink and forget.

DATE TO REMEMBER

July 8 Seems Right For Strait Swim

Straits swimmers soon might be circling July 8 on their calendars as a date to remember.

A year ago Sunday, after having fought adverse weather for weeks, Bert Thomas landed at Saxe Point to complete an all-night swim from Port Angeles across a flat calm strait.

Bill Muir, Saanich surveyor, bucked wind and tide in his previous attempts to swim the forbidding channel, but when July 8 rolled around, down went wind and sea.

And he almost made it. Weatherman William Mackie attached no great significance

DUKE FIXES GOAL

Humanistic Outlook Urged by Consort

OXFORD, England (Reuters) —The Duke of Edinburgh said today he saw no advantage in a prosperous and powerful nation if it achieved its position "at the expense of human freedom and happiness."

The Duke addressed some 300 men and women from almost every part of the Commonwealth at the opening of a Commonwealth conference on human problems in industry. He is president of the three-week conference.

"It may not be very easy to decide quite what we are aiming at in this modern world of ours," he said, "but whatever the target we must take into account that all people are primarily citizens and not just workers with a bit of private life."

The Duke suggested four basic ideas for the conference to develop:

1. Are there lessons from the past which can help overcome the problems of present industrialization?

2. Can the new industries of the Commonwealth help each other?

3. What things make for a good factory, a happy community and a satisfied individual?

4. What is the viewpoint in industrial problems of the board room, the factory floor, the labor union, and the research, production, and personnel departments?

"I make no claim whatsoever to any special knowledge of industrial problems—least of all of industrial relations which is a highly specialized subject in itself," he said.

"But the fact remains that I have probably seen more different kinds of industrial establishments than all of you put together—if not, it certainly seems like it sometimes."

"From cottage industry in Malta to aluminum smelting in British Columbia, from car assembly in New Zealand to locomotive workshops in Nigeria . . .

"From old industries like the potteries to the new iron ore works in northern Quebec, from mixed industry towns like the English Midlands to one-industry villages on the Welsh coal-fields.

"At first it was all rather bewildering and strange, but slowly and by degrees I found myself making comparisons between the different places and works . . .

"Later on I came to realize that a mine is a mine, a factory is a factory and a steelworks is a steelworks, whatever part of the world it is in."

The duke said the only noticeable difference was that some factories were happy and others depressing places to visit.

"I have nothing but praise for him," said R. F. Dalin, food market operator. "He deserves to get across next time, and I think Greater Victoria should give him all the backing possible."

"He has proved his ability," he said.

RATES BETTER LUCK
Said Mrs. Hilda Dent, a restaurant operator: "Bill rates better luck for his next swim. He made a gallant try Sunday and I'm sorry he didn't make it."

Service station operator Fred Borden said he was stationed by his radio from 10 o'clock on Sunday night to hear reports of the swim.

"He made a good try, and I'd give anything to see him make it all the way," he said.

KEPT AWAKE
Those aboard Muir's accompanying craft shouted themselves hoarse during the final stages of the swim—not only to give Bill encouragement but to keep him from slipping into an exhausted sleep in the water.

At 9 p.m., a message from Bill's wife, Josephine, was broadcast from Chatham Chief's loudspeaker. Among other things she said: "We won't be able to meet you in Port Angeles tonight, Bill, but we'll see you there tomorrow."

Crew of CKDA's swim boat Chatham Chief had no complaints to make about the food during Muir's swim.

In charge of the galley was none other than Big Ben Laughren, the swimming chef.

CALGARY (CP)—Governor General Vincent Massey today gets a real taste of the wild western atmosphere of Calgary at stampede time, starting off a full day of activity by heading a two-hour parade and winding it up with a look at the chuck wagon races, perhaps the most exciting of all rodeo sports.

Mr. Massey and his party tasted western hospitality and beef Sunday, attending a breakfast party at a farm south of the city and an outdoor barbecue at the football stadium, and his secretary and son, Lionel Massey, said his excellency enjoyed every minute of it.

Today's schedule calls for the governor-general's party to lead the parade through downtown Calgary.

The weather was perfect, a sunny 75 degrees with just enough breeze to keep it comfortable. Mr. Massey soon fell into the swing of things, trading the black bowler hat he wore when he stepped from the plane Saturday for the white 10-gallon westerner that he received from the city of Calgary during his last visit here two years ago.

10 DAYS IN B.C.
The Calgary visit will end Tuesday when the governor-general's special railway coach leaves for Jasper and Prince Rupert, B.C., via Edmonton.

The party will spend 10 days in British Columbia. Two records had already been broken before the world famous stampede got under way today. Officials of the exhibition and stampede reported that a total of 656 entries is a record since the yearly event was commenced in 1912. Last year, the total entry was 617.

The other mark that has been better is that of 103 entries for the steer decorating competition.

Arena director Don McLean said that the entry lists showed also that every major winner in the 1955 stampede had returned to defend their hard-won honors. Heading the list is Casey Tibbs of Fort Pierre, South Dakota, all-round champion.

No Change In Red China Stand—Nixon

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—Vice-President Richard Nixon flew home Sunday after declaring President Eisenhower was still firmly opposed to recognition of Red China and admission of Peiping to the United Nations.

Any suggestion that the president had modified his position (U.S. recognition and UN membership for the Red regime) was false, he told Gen. Chiang Kai-Shek.

Expressing "admiration for your unyielding stand against communism," the message told Chiang "let there be no misapprehension about our own steadfastness in continuing to support the Republic of China."

"International communism alter its tactics from time to time but we have as yet no evidence of any change in its objectives," Eisenhower added.

"The American people and government realize this."

Threat by Turks Hits Cyprus Plan

LONDON (UP)—Reliable sources said today that Turkey has threatened to quit the North American Treaty organization and the Baghdad Pact if Britain goes through with her plan of self-rule for Cyprus.

Turkey's firm stand on the Cyprus question has forced Britain to redraft its earlier plan to offer self-rule to the strife-torn Mediterranean island, as well as a prospect of self-determination in 10 or 15 years.

This plan is now dead and a new one is being worked out, officials said.

WOMAN SEES DEATH TWICE IN ONE DAY

PETERBOROUGH, Ont. (CP)—Death during the weekend ran close to Mrs. Gladys Jones, 45. Saturday she watched horror-stricken as Florence Radey, 40, sank in the waters of Clear lake a few feet from the boat in which she and another companion sat. Radey had tumbled from the boat and it drifted away from him. He was swimming toward it when he suddenly sank. On her way home Sunday Mrs. Jones was a passenger in a car which collided with another, killing the driver and injuring seven others, including herself. Killed was James McCloggett, 60. Mrs. Jones was taken to Bowmanville hospital with face and scalp cuts and severe shock.

War History Bares Winnie, FDR Dispute

LONDON (UP)—The U.S. landing in Southern France during the Second World War touched off a deep but short-lived difference of opinion between Prime Minister Winston Churchill and U.S. President Franklin D. Roosevelt. It was revealed for the first time today.

Churchill confided in 1944 that he was left "ill-treated and furious" at Roosevelt's insistence that a new front be opened in southern France at the expense of allied strength in Italy. The rift between the two world leaders was revealed in the latest volume of "Grand Strategy," an official British history of the Second World War written by John Ehrman, holder of a fellowship at Trinity College, Cambridge, who has access to all official sources.

The volume published today covers the period from August, 1943 to September, 1944.

ITALIAN PUSH

According to the history, Churchill was in favor of pushing the campaign in Italy, but Mr. Roosevelt wanted to open "Operation Anvil" in southern France with troops taken from the Italian theatre.

Mr. Roosevelt was convinced that southern France could be invaded successfully while the remaining troops in Italy pushed the Germans north of the Pisa-Rimini line.

MAJOR ERROR

The U.S. President expressed these views in a telegram to the Prime Minister, who shot back a 1,000-word cable to Mr. Roosevelt.

"We are deeply grieved by your telegram," Churchill said. "The splitting up of the campaign in the Mediterranean into two operations, neither of which can do anything decisive, is, in my humble and respectful opinion, the first major strategic and political error for which we two have to be responsible."

"I doubt whether you will find that three American divisions, supported by seven French, 80 per cent native divisions from Morocco, Algeria and Tunisia, will have any important strategic effect on the tremendous battle which Eisenhower and Montgomery are fighting 500 miles away to the north."

"It seems more likely to prove a cul-de-sac (blind alley) into which increasing numbers of U.S. troops will be drawn and I fear that further demands will be made even upon what is left to us in Italy."

But Mr. Roosevelt stood his ground and replied that he and his chiefs of staff were convinced they should open the Southern France campaign.

CHURCHILL FURIOUS

Ehrman said in his book that Churchill was "furious." "The prime minister composed, but did not send, several severe protests to Washington and as he put it privately to the chiefs of staff: 'An intense impression must be made upon the Americans that we have been ill-treated and are furious,'" the book said.

Churchill was in the Mediter-

Gov't Action Seen In Steel Deadlock

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Federal mediators may shed some light today or Tuesday on government plans aimed at ending the country-wide strike of 530,000 steelworkers, now in its ninth day. "Exploratory" talks in Pittsburgh last week with steel negotiators convinced the government it would have to take the initiative in scheduling further peace meetings, the mediators said.

Meantime, business in the United States is sliding off and layoffs continue to climb. Steel Magazine figures the U.S. economy lost $250,000,000 last week because of the strike. Some 50,000 persons already have been laid off in industries dependent on steel and the effects of the strike will fan out more this week.

During the weekend the Pennsylvania Railroad placed 7,000 non-union workers on reduced work schedules, resulting in a 10 per cent reduction in pay for each. The railroad, a large steel carrier, had previously laid off 18,000 employees.

Captive coal mines, those owned by steel companies, will be closed Tuesday. The captive mines produce coal for steel mill use only. One source estimates 30,000 are employed in captive fields.

The strike began at midnight on June 30 after a deadlock over the length of contract and monetary gains.

CAHORS, France (Reuters)—A 20-year-old girl cut off two of her boy friend's fingers so that he could escape national service, police reported Sunday.

They said that when Herman Collat, 20, a farm worker, received his call-up papers, he and Andree Lignoz went into a cellar. Herman put his right hand on a chopping block and Andree cut off the middle and index fingers with an axe.

She has been charged with "voluntary wounding."

Negroes Turn Down 1-Seat Segregation

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP)—Tallahassee Negroes Sunday night rejected a compromise proposal for ending the bus boycott and reaffirmed their determination to do without public transportation until they get integrated seating. The city commission renewed an offer to permit Negroes to sit where they wish on buses except for one three-passenger seat reserved for white patrons. Rev. David Brooks, a leader of the Negro inter-civic council said the commission offer was unanimously rejected. The boycott started in May as a protest against segregated seating and since has resulted in suspension of bus service here due to loss of business. At present, private automobiles are being used in a car pool to provide transportation for Negroes normally dependent on the buses.

Low Taxes, High Prices

WITH A SHOCKING LACK OF responsibility, and in denial of the clear economic facts, the Conservative Party asks the Canadian Government to reduce taxes immediately. The old cry of "over-taxation" is raised again at the very moment when a new inflationary spiral has sharply raised the cost of living.

Nothing could be more inflationary under these conditions than a reduction in taxes and a resulting stimulation of public purchasing power.

The whole purpose of the government's planned budgetary surplus this year was to counteract the upward pressure on prices. When the budget was introduced it could be argued that neither a surplus nor a rise in interest rates was required since inflation had not revealed itself in the price structure. That cannot be said now. The cost-of-living index has suddenly registered its largest monthly rise in five years. Inflation is no longer a fear in Canada or in the United States; it is a fact.

The Government's wisdom in budgeting for a surplus and refusing the easy course of tax reductions has been completely confirmed. Yet the Conservative Party chooses this time to call for tax reductions and apparently assumes that they will be made in any case before the next election to win Liberal votes.

Because the Opposition thus shows itself irresponsible and utterly careless of the housewife's purse, it does not follow that the Government will be irresponsible also. If the Government is worthy to govern it will not think for a moment of cutting taxes so long as the inflationary danger continues.

At first sight a tax cut before an election may appear to be good politics, as it often has been in the past. On second thought, however, we believe that the Canadian people will be more interested in the long-term value of their money and the stability of prices than in a marginal tax cut. They will support a government strong enough to do the hard and necessary thing and reject politicians who obviously are playing the most cynical sort of politics with the currency and the cost of living.

The Conservative Party in Parliament, having driven the Speaker from his chair, seems to be suffering from a spasm of euphoria and, evidently thinks it has the Government on the run. It hopes to drive the Government from its anti-inflation policies and, of course, take the credit for compelling tax reductions. Unless the Government, like the Opposition, has lost its sense of responsibility, this campaign will not succeed. If the Government stands by its policy it need not fear the verdict of a sensible people who know the meaning of inflation in their daily lives.

The Converted Egg-Head

THE RECENT UTTERANCES OF its leaders indicate a profound change of thinking in the American Government.

Just before he was taken ill President Eisenhower astonished the nation and evidently alarmed Mr. Dulles by saying, in an off-hand press conference statement, that he saw nothing wrong with the neutralism of various nations in the cold war. Mr. Dulles, the arch enemy of neutralism, promptly explained away the President's statement as a mere misunderstanding and went on to deplore the neutrals. Then Mr. Nixon delivered perhaps the most surprising speech of his career and obliquely criticized the foreign policy of the United States.

The Nixon speech is highly revealing. The Vice-President has always been regarded as a tough, down-to-earth politician who scorns the so-called egg-heads like Mr. Adlai Stevenson. Yet by the definition he has usually applied to his opponents he emerges as a shameless egg-head himself.

After his travels about the world he evidently has had second thoughts and begins to suspect that the United States' approach to foreign peoples, especially Asians, is unsound.

To begin with (echoing Mr. Stevenson's reiterated warnings) Mr. Nixon urges his people not to rely too much on military weapons since ideas will be "decisive" in the struggle with a new Russian strategy. Russia, he says, respects the desire of many nations for neutrality whereas, "by contrast we often seem to be talking war and military alliances."

In the Far East he found a fear of American "cultural imperialism," an American attempt to "dominate the thinking of other nations." To the eyes of these Asiatic peoples the United States appears too materialistic.

tic and too little concerned with intellectual and spiritual values. In Asia, Mr. Nixon adds, "the intellectual is not dismissed as an egg-head. The artist is not called a long-hair. The minister of religion is not considered an impractical idealist."

Here a new Nixon seems to be speaking, a Nixon not far from Stevenson, the unrepentant egg-head.

The Vice-President goes on to say that the Asiatics are deeply impressed by Russia's friendly treatment of the intellectual. Though Russia, by its philosophy, is the most materialistic nation in the world—using the word in its exact meaning—the Asiatics cannot be expected to understand that when even a rough citizen like Mr. Khrushchev poses as the patron of culture and the United States is represented abroad as something like an efficient Detroit assembly line.

In any case the new Nixon concludes that the uncommitted peoples cannot be "frightened into alliances with the West by military power, nor can their allegiance be purchased with dollars." The United States must deal with them as moral and spiritual equals, neither parading its material wealth nor adopting a "boastful or condescending attitude."

Going still further, where Mr. Dulles fears to tread, Mr. Nixon urges Americans to visit Russia as often as possible, carrying with them the "explosive power of freedom." He would use every opportunity of "breaking through the Iron Curtain."

All this sounds like the private thinking of Mr. Eisenhower and the public thinking of Mr. Stevenson, but bears no visible resemblance to the mind of Mr. Dulles. When Mr. Nixon emerges as the defender of the egg-heads, no doubt with the President's approval, the world will wait with interest to see how this change of mind is translated into change of policy.

Honors Well Earned

THE OFFICIAL WELCOME given to members of the S. J. Willis Junior High School band today marks formal recognition of the honor that group of young musicians has brought to Great Victoria.

The students deserve the praise they have received for their triumph at the Waterloo festival.

It is pleasing to note, also, that the band will give another public performance here Wednesday night—appearing at Beacon Hill in a program featuring the selection played at Waterloo during the festival. The event promises excellent entertainment.

Moving to Full Citizenship

THE 115 MEMBERS OF ALBERTA'S band of Indians at Michel have applied for group enfranchisement. This means that they are prepared to forego their privileges as natives and to assume the rights and responsibilities of full Canadian citizens.

The Michel group is evidently proceeding with a plan formerly considered by B.C.'s Metlakatlas. The coast group, it appears, has given the proposal second thought and may abandon the move to become full citizens with their own municipality.

Beyond that, it will furnish the people of this community an opportunity to honor the musicians by attending in large numbers.

This is a group of young people who have worked hard for the distinction they have won, have made their way to the top among Canadian school bands by long practice under skilled direction, and have just returned from a trip which they financed largely themselves.

By the numbers in attendance the citizens of Greater Victoria can show their appreciation Wednesday evening.

The group transfer of Indians at Michel, because of the number concerned, will make no appreciable difference in the broad problem of integrating the native population into the full stream of Canadian citizenship.

But if the total is relatively small, the action is significant. Provided the Indians of Michel succeed in their efforts to take on full status as Canadians, they will have provided an example which others may follow. Those who have given even cursory study to the Indian question in this country will wish them success.

Chips

BY DAVID BROCK

AN English friend of mine wrote to me the other day, after the British had deported a Greek priest who was making trouble. He said "As you know, I dearly love the English, but they do seem to harbor more than a fair share of cranks. Fancy making a fuss about expelling a Greek priest who has been badgering his flock for contributions in aid of the guys who are shooting, bombing, and burning our chips!"

"Can you explain why some of these people invariably assume that if anything doesn't work out, it is automatically all our fault? By their curious lights, the Greek government hasn't done its best to make an issue of Enosis, hasn't blocked any reasonable settlement, hasn't inflamed feeling and encouraged violence... or, if it has, it is fully justified, whereas it is very wicked of us not to be grateful to Greece for allowing us to help her in the past."

ON THE TRASK OF THE STORCH
I WAS looking at a list of the 1,600 different brands of motor car that have been made in the U.S.A. since about 1895. Yes, that's right... 1,600... one thousand, six hundred of them. Naturally, I hadn't even heard of most of them... the Trask and the Storch and the Mighty Michigan and the Punga-Finch and (heaven help us all) the Gas-a-lac. And I don't know what anybody here ever heard of the Buxmobile and the Buxmobile and the Black Crow? The Black Crow was made in 1908, long before those two Black Crow records of Moran and Mack... which now sound a little dismal, by the way, though the timing of the dialogue is very nice and could be studied with profit by some contemporary performers. And talking of timing, did you know the Steinway piano people made a motor car, back in 1895? Well, they did, and it was called the Steinway. Mr. Gruber probably knew that, but I didn't.

"Seated one day at the Steinway with its pedals marked Soft and Loud, I played that motor car engine in a way that amazed the crowd. I do not know what I was playing. For my mind was full of phlegm, but I hit one chord on the manifold like the sound of a great A-hem."

Write the rest yourself... I haven't even bothered to print this out as verse (if that's what it is)... it is too easy. THERE was a car named Longest. The name has gone but not the ambition... everybody still wants to own the longest car... possibly through some confusion between the adjective and the verb meaning to desire. "Oh how I long for the longest car"... that sort of thing. And if we are going to dip our hands in psychology, we had better remember, the car named Blood (1903). "It will have blood, they say; blood will have blood." If Macbeth was thinking of cars, he was too right.

There was a car named Bliss, in 1907. But the Bliss was a steam car, and maybe its name was only a blend of "blow" and "hiss." Don't make fun of steam cars, by the way... there are still a few engineers who think they were a good idea. And while we are still with the B's, I am glad to see there was a Brock (though without a K), and a Badger, which is the same thing as Brock. Oh, the other day some anonymous reader sent me a clipping about Brock the Badger, that relic of the stone age, still being around, in spite of its unfair and ignorant treatment by countrymen who prefer to encourage foxes.

A FEW weeks ago I met a woman I hadn't seen for 15 years and she asked how I kept so spry, and not being able to think of any interesting answer, I just said "By eating fruit." The next day she saw me in a doctor's waiting room and she said, "Hey, what are you doing here?" and I said I must have eaten some fruit.

The cars in the K list are rather good... there was a Klink and a Klock and a Krit and a Krock... 1905, 1900, 1911, and 1904, respectively. "Klink, Klock, Krit, Krock"... that sounds like some snappy dialogue by Mr. Danny Kaye, with a whiff of Disneyland. Four cars for seven dwarves, with Mr. Kaye in the rumbustiltsen-seat, rattling off droll lyrics till his sidekicks ache.

WELL, I'm not going to name you the whole batch of 1,600 automotivickers. I must mention the Dewaboot, though (1899)... whatcha gonna dewaboot dat? Something to do with instalments, I guess... the final payment, 57 years later, is dewaboot now. And there was a thing called the U.S. Long Distance (1900). My wife's father had a car that could have been called a Long Distance. He was a doctor, and one day he had to make a call a good six miles outside the city limits, so he took his good old trusty car to the service station and had it rapidly overhauled for the journey, and off he went, cap down over his eyes and jaw clenched, while everyone wished him the best of luck, and gave him a few tips about the next waterhole.

I will make no comment on the car named Croesus Junior. These days Junior takes the car out and creases other people. I want to end with the car named Twombly. In fact, there were two cars named Twombly... a steam car of 1904 and a gasoline car of 1913. If you can think of a finer name for a car, don't tell me about it. Twombly is the car for me. No son or daughter would be seen dead in one, and I could use it myself. Wanted, one Twombly, as is and where is.

Speaking About Saanich

Reeve Ash says he would like the ratepayers' expression on various matters. Well, here is mine. I have resided and been a taxpayer in Saanich for 30 years.

Reeve Ash and the newly-elected councillors before they had been in the council six months won a raise of pay for themselves on a motion by themselves and voted for themselves, with the senior councillors voting against the raise.

Now on the question of should Mr. Brannan get the job of administrator they are out-voted. They start crying and say they're going home if they cannot have their own way.

Who is this Mr. Carl Brannan? Mr. Brannan was on the commission with Mr. Bracewell which recommended an administrator be appointed for Saanich, then he applied for the position. I think these inexperienced councillors should carry on, gaining knowledge from their seniors who have given years of service to Saanich, instead of putting the ratepayers to more expense with by-elections and engaging experts for this and that. When the annual elections come they could resign their seats and let the ratepayers decide if they want them back.

Chief Interest Votes?

May I express my appreciation and approval of the point of view of Padre William Hills as quoted in your paper recently concerning radio commentators of a certain type. One is so often annoyed by the loud-mouthed delivery of these gentry of what to the thoughtful observer of events can only be considered half-baked views, and of their misrepresentation—ignorantly or otherwise—of matters in the news. One cannot help feeling critical of the management of radio stations which allow this kind of mischievous and irresponsible commentary to be broadcast.

May I also express the opinion that Mr. Gagliardi must either be very naive or very much lacking in a sense of the responsibility of his position in recommending any friend of his to any public position (as recently occurred in Mr. Gagliardi's recommendation of a friend to a position of teacher at Kamloops) no matter how well-intentioned the motive. It is of course but another example of the lack of experience and of the general amateurishness of a number of the members of our present government.

In thinking about Mr. Bennett, one cannot help but wonder whether his chief interest in the voters of the province is not their vote!

More About Her Side

The letter "The Duchess" by anonymous "Subscriber", July 3, is a sample of the narrow-minded, hypocritical view of a minority, which submits to the commands of a church, which issues those commands for their own purposes to try to keep the masses under their thumb, while other exploiters uphold them—in lip-service—also, because they think it will profit them. The time will come that these elements will reap the storm which is their due!

Your "Subscriber" did not wait for what the then Mrs. Simpson will tell us about the abominable attitude of the then Prime Minister Baldwin and the church; perhaps he (or she) was not of an age twenty years ago to comprehend what was involved in the abdication.

What happened in 1936 has found the counterpart nineteen years later when Princess Margaret's love for Townsend was sacrificed to the outrageous demands of the church. I don't doubt for a moment that Margaret will rue her decision in this matter, even though she may not show it to the world. It is the church with its hypocrisy which is to blame.

Explanation

We now have the spectacle of Canada's Russian Communist party, the LPP, "demanding" that Russia's new-style "leadership" give a fuller explanation of why Stalin was permitted to commit the crimes he is now accused of.

The LPP national executive does not consider adequate the explanations of Khrushchev that Stalin's personal weaknesses and shortcomings alone were responsible.

The Communist parties throughout the world must be having quite a time trying to save their consciences after their support for 20 or more years of admitted murder, torture and despotism at its very worst and on a mass scale.

Tim Buck said that tears should flow in the streets when Stalin died. Canadians were glad to see the despot go. Most of the things Canadians have thought and said about Russian Communism have proved right. The Russian Communists of the western world hope that time will overlook the so-called "errors" of the past. What a hope! They are now indelibly branded for what they are.

Danger of the Eager Beaver

BY WALTER LIPPMANN, From Washington

FOR some time past before the President went to the hospital there was talk in Washington of a rivalry between the State Department and some members of the White House staff who deal with foreign affairs. The President, it was said, was not listening exclusively to Mr. Dulles, and this was why there was occasionally, as for example in regard to the neutrals, such a big difference between the President and the Secretary of State. Some observers even went so far as to say that there had begun to exist—as in Wilson's day with Col. House, and Roosevelt with Harry Hopkins—a second Foreign Office in the White House itself.

Things have never gone nearly so far as that. For one thing, the President has too deeply ingrained a respect for official channels and regular procedure; for another, what happened under Wilson and Roosevelt is possible only when the President seems to be his own Foreign Minister. But it was true in what might be called the higher strategy of the cold war President Eisenhower has asserted his independent authority and has deviated from the State Department official line.

Dulles Expanding
Since the President's illness, there have of course been no more of these deviations. But what is more, Mr. Dulles has enlarged his own personal operations to take in propaganda and psychological warfare. Since the publication of the Khrushchev speech, the Secretary of State has made himself the chief propagandist, and has with the fanfare of big publicity used the Department of State as an engine of psychological warfare.

Hitherto, the psychological warriors, like the cloak and dagger men of the Intelligence Service, have been kept separate from the foreign service, whose business it is to conduct the acknowledged foreign relations of the United States. Even though the administrative control of the propaganda has been in the Department of State, it has been assumed that the Secretary of State was not himself an active propagandist.

To be that is a new role and it is, I believe, bad for our diplomacy and for our propaganda as well. President Eisenhower was following a sound rule, attested by experience at home and abroad, when in the person of Mr. C. D. Jackson and then of Mr. Nelson Rockefeller, he placed the Chief of Propaganda in the White House, away from the State Department, and under his own personal supervision.

Desirable Distinction
This separation preserves the desirable distinction between foreign policy and propaganda. For the Secretary of State cannot afford to be regarded as a propagandist. To be an effective Secretary of State he must have the confidence of the Foreign Ministers and the Prime Ministers with whom he negotiates. He must be known as a man of his word, as one who uses words precisely which mean, genuinely what they say. Now, there is no use pretending that this is the moral standard in psychological warfare. Words are used by the propagandist not to convey the whole truth as he knows it but to work an effect on other men's minds—to sell them a notion and to "engineer their consent."

A Secretary of State who himself assumes the role of Chief Propagandist can succeed only in undermining his own credit as a diplomat. Like a doctor who sells patent medicine, he sacrifices his professional standing.

It may be asked what difference does it make who does the propaganda? If a government resorts to propaganda, how can a Secretary of State, since he is a leading member of the government, escape the responsibility and consequences? The answer is that a way has been worked out in practice which is generally accepted by all governments. Every government does propaganda, and every government knows that every other government does propaganda. If all the propaganda were to be treated as genuine foreign-policy, international-business would be a total muddle.

Standard of Acceptance

Tacitly and by common consent, the governments have adopted a kind of agreement that they will not take at face value the propaganda of the professional propagandists, that they will not treat it as the serious intention and policy of the government. They will regard Philip Sober as the genuine Philip, not Philip Drunk with his propaganda.

This salutary discounting of propaganda is possible as long as there are open through the Foreign Offices genuine channels of communication. That is why propaganda should be conducted through separate agencies, and why the Secretary of State and the foreign service should remain aloof and uncontaminated by propaganda.

The case for separation is equally strong when you think of the effectiveness of the propaganda. As a result of the campaign launched by Khrushchev against Stalin, the international Communist movement and the whole Communist orbit are passing through an agonizing reappraisal which may well have epochal significance.

What should be the American stand in the face of these developments? Should we as eager beavers call attention to ourselves, making ourselves out either prime movers in the upheaval, and letting no day pass without saying or doing something that is meant to be an American intervention? Shall we be like Chanticleer, the rooster, who came to believe that the sun rose because he crowed at dawn? Or shall we avoid giving the impression that we are somehow engineering the upheaval, that what is going on is not so much an upheaval from within the Communist world as it is a disturbance due to our intervention?

Pretext for Repression

By taking the centre of the stage and putting this government in the spotlight, Mr. Dulles has provided the most obvious pretext for the repression of the upheaval—that is the work of an anti-Communist underground backed by the United States government.

This is the time when a shrewd American psychological warrior would be making himself invisible. And a wise Secretary of State would be holding himself aloof, not meddling with events which he cannot control and direct. (Copy, 1956, N.Y. Herald Tribune, Inc.)

McDONALD OF MOUNTIES OFF TO THE RESCUE

CHICAGO (AP)—Chicago White Sox, seeking to bolster their sagging pitching staff, Sunday announced the purchase of former major league righthander Jim McDonald from Vancouver.

McDonald, who came up with Boston Red Sox in 1950 and then went on to St. Louis Browns, New York Yankees and Baltimore Orioles, brings a 4-5 record to the Sox.

The Sox reassigned righthander Bill Fischer from Toronto to Vancouver and asked waivers on lefthander Howie Pollett for purposes of an unconditional release to make room for McDonald.

Farmers Bobble Chance at First

Victoria's Farmer Construction, after a brief taste of glory Saturday, will have to wait until next weekend to make another grab at first place in the Northwest Inter-national Baseball League.

That's if they take two from visiting Tacoma Stars in the usual doubleheader Saturday at Athletic Park and first-place Seattle co-operates by losing.

Last Saturday at Athletic Park, Ed Ash's Farmers bled a chance to take the lead once and for all by dropping an error-studded second game to Seattle, 11-8.

They had won the opener, 3-2, behind the combined one-hitter of Paul Beck and Bill Garner, to briefly lead Seattle by a few percentage points.

Farmers committed five bobbles in each of the two games, but the errors in the second contest were the most damaging.

Perhaps the most alarming was third-baseman Stu Mitchell's bobble in the fourth inning of the second game.

With one out, one run in and runners on first and second, Mitchell threw wildly over first on a routine play on a grounder. Both Seattle's runners scored on the play and instead of having two out and one run in, Seattle still had one out and three runs in.

Seattle went on to score seven runs in that inning, and, although Farmers tried hard, settled the first-place issue right there.

In the opener, Paul Beck issued a single in the first inning and blanked the visitors right up to the seventh, when he tired. Garner came on to set down Seattle the rest of the way.

Farmers got to loser Warren Noyes for 10 hits in the opener. Jerry Bachm won the nightcap for the visitors, although needing help from fire-balling Joe Lains in the ninth, while Bill Prior was left in all the way by manager Ash to take the loss.

Best hitting effort of the twin bill was Jim Harford's three for four in the opener. Lains and Jerry Thornton with two for four each led the winners in the second game.

Over 700 fans watched the two games.

Alcos Upset Bays; Cowichan Wins Again

Alcos defeated Oak Bay by 55 runs Sunday at Windsor Park to win its second match of the season in the Victoria and District Cricket Association.

Bowler C. Robinson, taking six wickets for 17 runs and B. Twamley, batting 23 runs, led the last-place Alcos to victory.

D. Warren batted 16 runs for the losers.

Alcos, batting first, ran up a total of 88 runs, then dismissed Oak Bay for 33 runs.

Saturday, Cowichan defeated Albions by 67 runs at Beacon Hill Park for its seventh straight game without a loss, and remained in first place two points ahead of Incogs, who defeated Five C's by 13 runs at University School.

Gorge Hotel Tops Arrows

Victoria softball teams completed a three-game sweep over Bremerton Designers over the busy softball weekend and Gorge Hotel spanked Arrow Furniture in a league game.

In the exhibition Bremerton series, Chinese Students blasted the U.S. team, 12-5 Saturday night; Gorge Hotel hit for distance to dispose of the Designers 7-2 on Sunday and Arrows scored five runs in the bottom of the ninth to squeeze out a 12-11 victory.

The league game Sunday night saw Gorge down Arrows, 9-1 with Ab Wiebe giving up just two singles.

Ben J. hit a two-run homer and Gordy Jones belted a three-run homer for Gorge in their victory over Bremerton as burly Ed Foychuck held the visitors to five hits.

In the Arrows-Bremerton game, Bremerton scored four runs in the top of the ninth on five Arrow errors to take an 11-7 lead.

However, Arrows saved themselves from embarrassment by chasing over five runs in the bottom of the ninth, highlighted by Timmy Walker's grand-slam homer that ended the game abruptly.

The teams committed a total of 13 errors.

Wiebe pitched a smart two-hitter at Arrows in the evening game while Gorge solved two Arrow hurriers for nine hits. Arrows made five more errors.

Linescores follow:

GAINS SWEEP Fanning Still Best At Western

Del Fanning of Seattle, who breezed to a new track record in his last appearance at Western Speedway, continued his dominance of the big cars Saturday night, scoring a clean sweep at the Langford track.

Fanning, after winning the first heat, stayed ahead of Al Courts to take the trophy dash, then flashed ahead of Ed Kostenuk on the seventh lap of the 25-lap main event and never looked back. Kostenuk hung on to finish second.

Close to 2,000 spectators watched the evening's action.

Results:

First heat—1, Del Fanning; 2, Ed Kostenuk; 3, Fred Hayton.
Second heat—1, Bob Simpson; 2, Al Courts; 3, Bill Heller.
Third heat—1, Heller; 2, Hayton; 3, Willie Lou.
Fourth heat—1, Corky Thomas; 2, Ron Douglas.
Trophy dash—1, Fanning; 2, Courts; 3, Simpson.
Main event—1, Fanning; 2, Kostenuk; 3, Courts.
Crash elimination—Kostenuk.

GAINS SWEEP Fanning Still Best At Western

Del Fanning of Seattle, who breezed to a new track record in his last appearance at Western Speedway, continued his dominance of the big cars Saturday night, scoring a clean sweep at the Langford track.

Fanning, after winning the first heat, stayed ahead of Al Courts to take the trophy dash, then flashed ahead of Ed Kostenuk on the seventh lap of the 25-lap main event and never looked back. Kostenuk hung on to finish second.

Close to 2,000 spectators watched the evening's action.

Results:

First heat—1, Del Fanning; 2, Ed Kostenuk; 3, Fred Hayton.
Second heat—1, Bob Simpson; 2, Al Courts; 3, Bill Heller.
Third heat—1, Heller; 2, Hayton; 3, Willie Lou.
Fourth heat—1, Corky Thomas; 2, Ron Douglas.
Trophy dash—1, Fanning; 2, Courts; 3, Simpson.
Main event—1, Fanning; 2, Kostenuk; 3, Courts.
Crash elimination—Kostenuk.

Milglory Gets Double At Sandown

Racing fans shovelled $17,105 through the "mutuel" wickets Saturday on the last day of the five-day harness racing meet at Sandown Park to bring the week's total to $39,637.

The good crowd watched under a brilliant sun as Milglory, driven by A. B. Kennedy, won two races on the eight-race card, to close out the meet.

Winning the fifth, a free-for-all trot, Milglory paid $4.30, $3.40 to its backers, then sneaked in under the wire in the class free-for-all in the seventh to pay $12.10, $6.50.

The Sidney five-eighths mile track will be dark now until the 14-day thoroughbred racing meet Sept. 15-Oct. 1.

PCC Levies Huge Fines

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The Pacific Coast Conference Sunday fined the University of Southern California approximately $63,400 and the University of California $25,000 for illegal pay to athletes.

Forty-two USC football players and two track men lost a year's eligibility.

Twenty-nine California football men must submit proof their grants were repaid or lose a year's eligibility.

In the case of California, the conference held that the grants-in-aid did not in most cases involve more than was sanctioned by the conference and the major penalty was assessed against the school. No ineligibility will be imposed on proof of repayment of the grants.

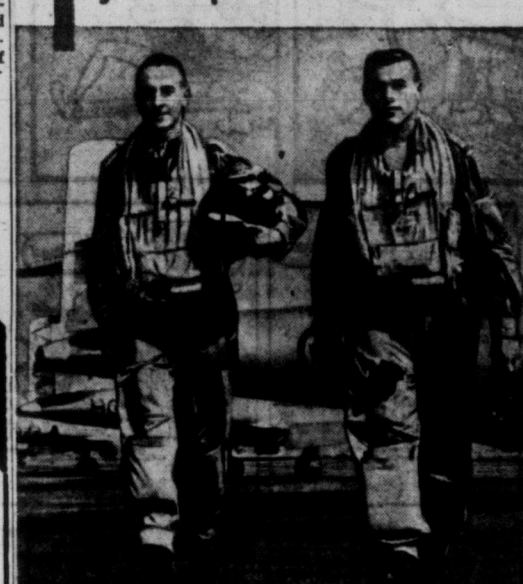

In the case of USC, however, one year's ineligibility was assessed against the athletes listed as having received illegal aid, which was in excess of the conference code regulations.

USC went on probation for two years and will be ineligible to play in the Rose Bowl or share in Rose Bowl game receipts. This means an indirect fine of $53,400 against USC since the share for each PCC school has averaged $26,700 annually.

USC also was fined $10,000 for denying conference commissioner Victor O. Schmidt information about payments to athletes.

California went on probation for one year, but did not lose its Rose Bowl receipts share.

Andy sends a complete, 15-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia to Robert Byers, age 11, of St. Catharines, Ont., for his question:

What type of bird is a jackdaw?

The sassy jackdaw is cousin to the crow, the raven, the rook and the magpie. All of them belong to the Corvidae bird family. If all the birds in the world took an intelligence test, the family would top the scores, no doubt about it. And Mr. Jackdaw would fly off with the medal. In fact, he will fly off with any pretty little object that catches his eye.

You may be sorry to learn that this smart fellow is neither a Canadian nor an American. But wait—smart people are not always the easy ones to get along with. True, people in his native Europe love their sassy jackdaw who can talk back. But there are times when they would gladly wring his shiny neck. He uses his wits to be mischievous. He will snatch jewels, spoons and other bright objects, especially if they happen to be your most cherished possessions.

The jackdaw is a smallish member of the crow family, about the size of a large grackle. He wears plumage of gleaming black with a bonnet and ear-muffs of silvery grey. The handsome fellow adores people, probably because they are so easy to tease.

Sometimes he is adopted as a family pet. He shows off amusing tricks and soon learns to talk a few words in a raspy voice. In days gone by, it was thought necessary to split his tongue before he could talk. Now we know that he will learn human talk without this cruel operation. He will talk back whether you encourage him or not.

When adopted, he repays the kindness with mischief. He bosses the cats and dogs with his raspy human talk. He moves small objects from here to there. He figures out which is your favorite ring, brooch or lucky piece and hides his time. Sooner or later, you will put it down. To Mr. Jackdaw, this moment is worth the waiting. Quick as a flash he lifts it in his strong beak and flies off silent as a mouse. He hides his loot in his nest of sticks, often high in a castle turret or church steeple. In Europe there are countless tales of his mischief, even in poems. Many an innocent party, they say, has served time for jackdaw thievery. The real culprit watched from the church steeple as his victim was hauled off to jail. Chances are, he later visited the poor fellow and spoke a few kind raspy words through prison bars.

After many years, the steeple or tall turret needed repair. A steeplejack climbed way up and what did he find? A 12-foot-high nest of sticks, made by a jackdaw, glinting with bits of loot. Here is the cardinal's lost ring, six silver spoons engraved with Mrs. Webster's initials, Widow Brown's gray ladle and, of all things, Lady Gray's diamond necklace that all the fuss was about. Naturally, when this shocking discovery is made, our smart jackdaw is nowhere to be found. That's the type of a bird a jackdaw is.

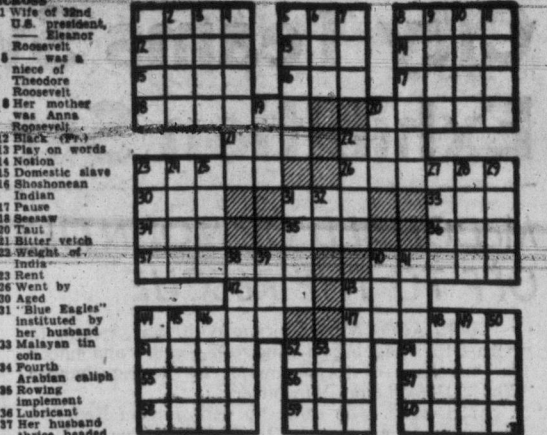

Andy sends a Hammond International World Globe to Ina Salkin, age 11, of Barnsdale, Okla., for her question:

How Heavy is the World?

You may write the weight of the world as six sextillion 570 quintillion tons. Or you may put it in figures with 6,570 followed by 18 zeros. Naturally the complete weight of the world includes every stone, person, house and auto in the state of Oklahoma. It includes every country, mountain and continent as well as everything upon the earth. It includes the dense heavy rocks inside the solid round earth.

The full weight also includes about one and a half thousand million tons of water—the great oceans, the rivers, ponds and streams. And it includes the air reaching hundreds of miles above our heads. The air weight alone is considerable. It weighs about 14½ pounds over each square inch of ground at sea level.

Next time somebody tells you on his shoulders, don't believe a word of it. Just quote the figures.

No CD Role For Reserves

BRANDON (CP) — Rumors that the Canadian reserve army will be turned into a civil defence force are false, says Maj. Gen. W. J. McGill, general officer commanding Prairie command.

Addressing about 200 militia officers Saturday at the end of their summer training at Camp Shilo, he said:

"The only time the army will take over civic administration is when the normal civil defence organization breaks down."

Daring Choice Of Opera Well Rewarded

Stratford Opens
Week of Music

By BILL BOSS

STRATFORD, Ont. (CP)—A lusty, cynical commentary on woman's chastity, Benjamin Britten's opera, "The Rape of Lucretia," gave an exciting opening Saturday night to the Shakespearean festival's second annual season of music.

Sung in English by an outstanding cast, with a libretto that makes no concessions to the squeamish in evoking the licentious flavor of degenerate pre-Christian Rome, the opera swept a capacity audience to its feet in an ovation of praise at its conclusion.

The Metropolitan Opera's Regina Resnik was Lucretia, whose virtue was the talk of a Rome whose other leading citizens had wives with a taste for sex when hubby was at the wars.

Bass-baritone Jack Rubes was her husband, Collatinus, while Australian baritone Harry Mossfield, now of Toronto, was the rapist Etruscan Prince Tarquinius.

Soprano Jennie Toulou and tenor Jon Vickers of Regina and Vancouver were the female and male chorus, who explain, comment upon and at times even participate in its action.

The opera, written just 10 years ago, was a daring and imaginative choice to open the season's broad program embracing classical and contemporary serious music and a survey of 20th century jazz.

The rape arises from Tarquinius' disbelief that there exists in Rome a woman unsalable by his desire. He rides back from the campaigns, obtains shelter in her home on a pretext.

After the household has gone to bed, he enters Lucretia's chamber where, after suitable protestation and wrestling, he beats out the candle with his sword.

Shamed Lucretia next morning dispatches a servant to her husband with an orchid, symbol of purity, ordering: "Tell him a Roman harlot sent it and tell him to ride straight to her."

Collatinus returns, forgiving, but Lucretia stabs herself with his sword in remorse.

OAK BAY

my side of the story

A continuing series
BY THE DUCHESS OF WINDSOR

Those were the circumstances of my leave-taking of the Fort, which had for so long been a place of enchantment, and of David.

The December night mist swiftly engulfed us, an intimation that the same darkness was closing around my hopes, my love, my life. France was my destination, but for me France at that hour meant the beginning of oblivion. I was sure that I would not come back, that I would never see England again.

The night ferry left from Newhaven at 10 o'clock. We had none too much time, and Perry Brownlow's chauffeur, Field, drove fast.

It was drizzling and the car windows were fogged over; every now and then a yellowish blur would tell me that we were passing through a town.

For a long time Perry and I sat together in silence. The parting had been deeply affecting.

Plot to Keep King on Throne

Their one idea was to keep the King on the throne and to extricate me with dignity from my appalling situation. As the trusted friend of David and me, Perry was charged by the others with approaching me to explain the situation and to persuade me to give up the King, since he would not give me up, and also to leave the country while there was still a chance to save us both.

The friendly conspirators, if I may use so melodramatic a term for men of such honorable intentions, knew that the King would be in London the next day, Dec. 3, to conduct his business and to see Mr. Baldwin; the scheme was for Perry to seek me out at the Fort during the King's absence.

Actually, the following morning, while I was packing, Perry, Walter Monckton and George Allen were meeting at the Windham Club to give the final touches to the strategy.

Just as Perry was about to start for the Fort, his wife Kitty reached him on the telephone with word that the King was trying to get in touch with him. Alarmed by this startling coincidence, Perry called at the Fort, to be told by the King, as I have already described, of the plans for my leaving.

Would David Stay in England?

At this juncture, on the way to the coast, I was, of course, wholly ignorant of Perry's other and secret undertaking. When, breaking the silence, he asked what had induced me to leave so suddenly, I told him the reasons—my fears for the King, and my resolve to remove myself from a position that had become insupportable. As Perry and I talked, a note of relief became apparent in his voice.

"Wallis," he finally said, "this is the way I felt sure you felt about the King." Then he put a surprising question: "Do you still think it is wise for you to leave England?"

"I have only one desire now," I answered. "It is to go just as far away as I can just as fast as I can—to finish it."

He signalled the chauffeur to pull over to the side of the road and stop. For some minutes we talked in whispers, in order not to be overheard by Field and Evans, the Scotland Yard detective David had assigned us, who were sitting in the front, their eyes straight ahead.

Perry weighed his every word. "What I'm getting at is simply this: with you gone the King will not stay in England."

Victoria Girl Off Tuesday For UN Tour

"United Nations tour" of Canada and the United States begins Tuesday for Patricia Petrie, 17, winner of an Odd-fellows public-speaking contest on the subject "My Community and the World."

Patricia, daughter of Dr. R. M. Petrie, director of the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory, and Mrs. Petrie, will meet other B.C. winners at Kelowna, and winners in the Pacific Northwest States, at Spokane, Wash.

The group will leave Friday on a zig-zagging bus tour of Canada and the U.S., with a stop-over in Ottawa to meet Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent.

They will spend a week in New York visiting the United Nations headquarters and proceed to Washington, where contest winners may have an audience with President Eisenhower.

Patricia will return home August 9. She will enter Grade 12 at Victoria High School next term.

Powerful Transmitter For CD Work

BURNABY, B.C. (CP)—A 1,000-watt transmitter, permitting communication with any part of North America, is being installed by civil defence officials here.

Officials say it is the only equipment of its kind in western Canada. E. A. Fountain, civil defence administrator here, says the station will be able to communicate with "stations in Australia and other distant points. But its real importance is that it can keep us in touch with any part of this continent in case of emergency."

The station will be manned by 10 operators.

Temperature Hits 94 at Lytton

LYTTON, B.C. (CP)—Temperatures in this north-central British Columbia town soared to 94 degrees Sunday, the highest this year in the province.

Elsewhere in B.C., skies were clear and the weather warm, although in most cases temperatures were below the year's highs. Kamloops was second highest with 92 while Vancouver had a high of 73.

WAGE EARNERS

Norway had 1,020,300 employed wage earners as of May 31, 1956.

Fats Domino, Bandsmen Flee As Rock and Roll Crowd Riots

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP)—Some 2,500 teenagers at a rock-and-roll dance staged a riot early Sunday that lasted an hour before a force of 75 officers got it under control.

Ten were arrested. Scores were injured slightly with bottle cuts, scratches and bruises. One dancer suffered a possible skull injury.

Fats Domino and his band, favorites of the rock and roll set, fled when the free-for-all brawl started.

"Everybody was at each other," said Charles Silva, owner of the Palomar. "Boys fought boys, and even girls. Girls were slugging boys and scratching one another."

Silva said the fighting started after someone hurled a beer bottle at the dancers on the floor.

'Teen-Age Motorist Blamed in Fatality

NANAIMO (BUP)—A teen-age driver was blamed Friday for the death of a Youbou youth, after his girl friend told a coroner's jury she had wrestled the steering wheel from him.

The jury held that the death of Trevor Proteau June 30 was due to "undue care and attention by the driver, possibly aggravated by a fellow passenger grabbing the steering wheel."

Dr. Henry W. Lewis, coroner, took "undue care" in the verdict to mean that 18-year-old Kenneth Zawerucha was in trouble before 16-year-old Barbara May Byington, of Cedar, his girl friend, grabbed the wheel.

He had suggested to the jury that evidence indicated "dangerous speed."

Also in the death car, were Inge Gamble, 17, Leona Curtis, 15, of Cedar, and the driver, Kenneth Zawerucha. The driver was not called to give evidence.

The teen-age party was travelling to Nanaimo after a "rock 'n' roll" dance at Duncan.

Fishing Boat Wreck Victim Identified

VANCOUVER (CP)—The body of a fisherman taken from a fishing boat wrecked off the west coast of Vancouver Island has been positively identified as that of Clarence Hagen, 41, of Seattle, RCAF Search and Rescue has reported here.

Hagen's body was taken to Sooke Inlet on Vancouver Island by a U.S. coast guard helicopter. It was identified by the pilot of the helicopter.

An RCAF officer said the coast guard now is sure that Hagen was the only man aboard the fishpacker, believed to be the LaVerne from Lake Union, Wash.

A lifeboat from Bamfield light station, on the west coast of Vancouver Island, had been dispatched earlier to search the shipwreck area when it was believed another man had been on the boat and was missing.

Hagen left Seattle July 4, and it is believed his boat was wrecked four days ago.

Sands Mortuary brought the body to Victoria, and will forward it to Seattle tonight for burial. Hagen is survived by his widow and a son and daughter in Seattle.

Courtenay School Teacher Socrd Nominee for Comox

COURTENAY (CP)—Dan Campbell, Courtenay High School teacher, was elected provincial Social Credit candidate for Comox constituency at a nomination meeting at Bowser Saturday night. He won out over Harry Harris and Howard Champ.

Mr. Campbell is chairman of the B.C. Teachers' Federation's professional education and salary committees, and immediate past president of Comox District Teachers' Association.

Two-Way Radios Warned Off Malahat Blast

Police, firemen, and others with two-way radio transmitters in their cars and trucks have been asked not to use them in the vicinity of a blast being prepared on the Malahat because they might accidentally fire the shot.

Campbell Bennett Ltd., contractors at work on the Malahat, are laying charges now, and will fire the blast at 5 a.m. Tuesday. They anticipate a road block until 8.30 a.m.

Since charges will be fired electrically, the transmitters may not be used. According to the Workmen's Compensation Board, it is possible for the sets to activate the firing system, causing a spark that will set off the whole rock face.

Engineers said the blast will not be large, but that an awkward rock formation and proximity to the highway may cause a fall that will require the full three and one-half hours to clear.

The rock to be removed is on Tunnel Hill, one-half mile north of the road leading to Hall's boat house.

Boat owners have been requested to stay away from the west side of Finlayson arm from Hall's boat house to a point one mile north during the time of the blast.

Building Volume At Cowichan Up Over June, 1955

CHEMAINUS—Building permits issued by the Municipality of North Cowichan last month totalled $105,890 as compared with permit values of $70,140 for the month of June last year.

Value of building permits issued in the municipality during the first six months of this year is more than $500,000 higher than in the corresponding period last year. Permit values for the first six months of this year amount to $785,755 as compared to $225,799 in 1955.

Last month the municipality issued nine permits for new residences, three for repairs to residences, one for industrial construction, one for repairs to a commercial building, and several for general house repairs.

No More Classes; Shared Wealth, Schools Control, Labor Party Plan

LONDON (Reuters)—In a major policy statement the Labor party Saturday outlined a far-reaching "share-the-wealth" program it plans to enact the next time it takes office.

"We propose to redistribute wealth in such a way that its benefits may be enjoyed by the many instead of the few," it said in a statement entitled "towards equality."

"This involves first of all the limitation of large fortunes by taxation, secondly a transfer of wealth from private to public hands, and finally better distribution of wealth among individuals so that whilst great fortunes grow less numerous, ownership and saving become more widespread."

The party also said it was considering a tax on spending for the "wealthy minority," those with annual incomes of over £2,000. But the party confessed the scheme may prove impractical.

To transfer private property to public ownership, the party warned it might "collect estate duty in property as well as in cash."

The Laborites also promise to review existing tax laws in an effort to eliminate "loopholes" and "to restrict those exemptions and reliefs which are now being abused."

As an example of abuse, it singled out the "top hat" pension scheme by which some businesses write off tax-free sums for retirement.

The party also promises to reform the British educational system which, it said, leads only to inequality in society.

"A classless society and our present pattern of education cannot be reconciled," the statement concluded. "We can have one or the other but we cannot have both at the same time."

VIOLENT THUNDERSTORMS FLOOD LONDON SUBWAY

LONDON (Reuters)—Violent thunderstorms brought chaos to London during the early morning rush hour today when subways were flooded by the heaviest rainfall in 15 years.

A London observatory recorded two inches of rainfall in a three-hour period, just as suburbanites were starting to make their way to the city.

Several passengers fainted in one crowded subway train held 35 minutes between stations by floods. Train services were also halted and buses forced to make long detours.

The rain covered most of southern England following the warmest day of the year Sunday.

In France 20 persons died in bathing and boating accidents as the country sweltered through the third day of a heat wave today. Paris was warmer than Cannes with temperatures around 85 in the shade.

INSPECTING $25,000 COLLECTION of Mexican art to be on display at Crystal Garden this week are Tony Emery, assistant curator at city art centre and Kack Hann of Canadian Pacific Airlines.—(Times)

'STRANGE, RICH, CLIMATE OF FEELING'

Mexican Art Show Proves 'Impressive'

Co-sponsored by The Victoria Daily Times and Canadian Pacific Airlines, an exhibition of Mexican art valued at $25,000 will be open to the public in the Crystal Garden lower ballroom at 5 p.m. Tuesday. Tonight the exhibition is to be previewed by the Mexican Consul from Vancouver and a group of Victoria artists. Colin Graham, curator of the Art Gallery, saw the display today and has written a critical analysis of it for The Times. The show will open free to the public from 2 to 8 p.m. daily throughout the week.

By COLIN GRAHAM
To enter the exhibition of Mexican painting which opens Tuesday at the Crystal Garden is, for a Canadian, to plunge into a rich, strange, and totally different climate of feeling.

In place of the traditional reserve and restraint of Canadian shows, these Mexican have a refreshing, free-wheeling candor and intensity. When they combine this Latin richness of emotion with the sombre earthiness of their Aztec and Toltec traditions, the result can be impressive.
This is also popular painting in the sense that it is obviously close to the lives, aspirations, pleasures and tragedies of the Mexican people. As such, it should present no difficulties of interpretation to the average man in the street.

In further contrast to Canadian painting, where the human element is apt to be lost in an avalanche of pure landscape, it is interesting to note that of the 46 canvases on view, more than half give primacy to the human figure. These latter range all the way from the violence of Federico Cantos' apocalyptic "Four Horsemen" to the placidity of Paul Angulano's "Maternity."

For those seeking typical Mexican color there are scenes of the market place, fishermen, workers, and of age-old religious festivals. Nefero's "Holy Week Penitents," for instance, has a folk-like, medieval sincerity. Traces of the direct influence of Spanish painting are few. Motaya's crisp still life of fruit and vegetables—one of the quietest but ablest pieces in the show—perhaps bows in the direction of Zurbarán, while Canto's "Four Horsemen" suggests El Greco via Siqueiros.

But generally speaking the liveliness and vitality seem to spring directly from Mexican life itself. The remarkable thing is that wherever the painters have deliberately invoked the influence of their Aztec or Toltec forbears, the result has usually been pure gain in terms of monumental force rather than the archaeological academicisms one might expect.

Such a case, I would guess, is to be seen in Pacheco's "Los Panos" and "Yucatan Country," two of the best works in the show and both remarkable for austere and monumental strength. Several of the artists represented, such as Diego Rivera and Carlos Merida, have reputations that are international in scope.

The show as a unit opens a most intriguing window into Mexican life and feeling, and anyone who imagines that these can be summed up in the words sombrero, serape and siesta undoubtedly owes himself a visit to the Crystal Garden this week.

Six Injured In Shawnigan Car Crash

A head-on collision of two automobiles near Shawnigan Lake late Saturday sent four persons to hospital and injured two others.

The accident occurred about 5 p.m. Saturday at a slight curve on the Shawnigan Lake road, a mile and a half south of the lake.

The injured were brought to St. Joseph's Hospital by the Langford RCMP detachment ambulance. All were reported in good condition today.

RCMP at Duncan identified the two drivers as William Bernard Nikkels, 18, R.R. 2, Victoria, and Raymond Frederick Hughes, 18, 1130 Monterey, Victoria.

Nikkels suffered abrasions to his chin and arm and was released from hospital after treatment.

Three other youths riding in his car also were hurt: Anthony Gardner, 20, Happy Valley Road, neck and shoulder injuries;

Allan Lequesne, 19, Leigh Road, deep cuts on his forehead and right cheek;

Basil Wells, 17, Happy Valley Road, cut forehead and rib injuries.

Hughes and a passenger in his car, Nancy Clark, 2605 Cotswold, escaped with a shaking up.

Police estimated total damage to the two cars at $1,700.

Search Continues For 90-Year-Old

Disappearance of an aged Victoria man from an eastbound CNR train is being investigated by railway officials.

John Schattinkirk, 90, of 2109 Chambers, boarded the train at Vancouver June 5 to visit two daughters in Yorkton, Sask.

He hasn't been seen since. His luggage arrived in Yorkton but CNR officials said it was never claimed.

Mrs. J. T. Schattinkirk, 350 Berwick, a daughter-in-law, said today the family has no idea where he could be.

He left Victoria June 4 and was put aboard the train the next day by his son.

Barry Theodore Chanakos, HMCS Naden, was remanded to Tuesday in city police court today on a charge of criminally negligent driving.

The charge arose from an accident at Pandora and Blanshard Sunday in which Wallace Fong, 19, of 670 Herald, was injured.

Fong suffered cuts and abrasions on his arms and head. He was reported in good condition in St. Joseph's Hospital today.

Chanakos also faces a charge of failing to remain at the scene of an accident arising out of the same mishap.

Mayor Percy Scurrell summed up speeches to returning victorious members of S. J. Willis Junior High band today: "You have brought credit to yourselves and honor to the city."

City council is slated to discuss the importance to the city of the fact the band, all members under 16, won top honors in under-18 band festival at Waterloo, Ontario. The festival is most important for instrumentalists in Canada and several bands from U.S. took part.

Marilyn Bell Wants To Visit Crippled Tots

Never Considered Jaycee Mass Swim

Marilyn Bell plans a solo attempt to swim Juan de Fuca Strait and never had any intention of entering the mass swim sponsored by the Victoria Chamber of Commerce.

This was explained by her sponsors today in comment on a statement by Bill Davidson, Jaycee swim chairman, that Marilyn would not be eligible for the mass swim prize if she gave exclusive rights on her stories.

Marilyn's swim is sponsored by the Toronto Telegram, The Victoria Times, and Weekend Magazine.

Marilyn will get a civic send-off from Toronto Thursday night. She will leave Toronto by plane next Sunday morning, arriving at Patricia Bay at 6:45 p.m. where she will get an official welcome.

She plans a training period of about six weeks, depending on the final date chosen by her navigator for the swim, and the existing weather conditions.

RICHES AT STAKE
Marilyn's sponsors explained that she fully realizes the enormity of the task ahead of her and for that reason is planning to swim alone.

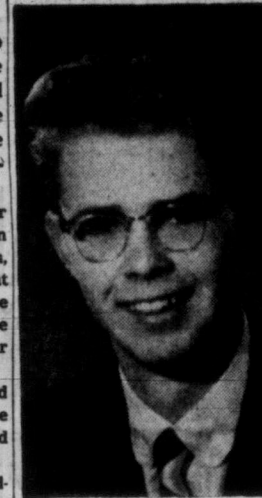

Marilyn, who has conquered Lake Ontario and the English Channel, will get $20,000 for her effort, $10,000 more if she succeeds.

Marilyn, who is studying physiotherapy, will attend a garden party to be given in her honor by the Cerebral Palsy Association of Lower Vancouver Island, July 18.

The garden party will be given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Husband, Rutland road, from 3 to 5 p.m. It will be open to the public.

In a letter received by the association today, Marilyn said she is looking forward to meeting as many cerebral palsied children as possible.

Saved Life Off Willows

Two Victoria boys who braved a pounding surf off Willows beach on April 15 last year to save the life of a young dockyard worker are among 37 persons across the Dominion awarded parchment certificates by the Royal Canadian Humane Association today.

The local recipients are Lorne Dale Priestley, 16, of 1621 Hollywood Crescent, and John Alexander Murdoch, 13, 2240 Beach, for saving R. E. Mills, 1158 View Street.

Among others to receive certificates are C. D. Wellard, formerly of Victoria, lighthouse keeper at Carmanah Point light station on the west coast of Vancouver Island. He rescued Karl von Hartmann from drowning near the light on Oct. 5, 1955.

Robert Morris, 13, Ganges, Salt Spring Island, for rescuing Kenneth Ashlee from a swimming pool at Harbor House, Aug. 1, 1955.

Lieut. Robert James Paul, HMCS Jonquiere, for rescuing Eddie Larson at the CPR pier at Vancouver July 17, 1955.

A gold medal, the association's top award, was posthumously awarded to George Mosbaugh, a superintendent of the Anglo-Canadian Leather Company of Huntsville, Ont., who climbed into a vat he knew was filled with deadly fumes and died in an unsuccessful attempt to save two fellow workers.

The two Victoria teen-agers who received certificates arrived just in time to save the life of Mills off Willows Beach. Mills had entered the water after taking a $100 wager with a fellow worker that he could stay in the cold sea for an hour. He won his bet but it nearly cost him his life.

Mills tried to swim back to the shore, but the waves proved too much for him. A group at the beach noticed he was in trouble and tried to launch a small boat, but it was hurled back onto the beach by the rollers.

Lorne Priestley rushed into the water and was up to his shoulders before he was able to grab Mills. Alex Murdoch assisted him in pulling Mills ashore.

ASK THE TIMES

Q.—News dispatches recently told of the guillotining of rebels in Algeria who had been convicted at trials. When was the guillotine adopted as the instrument of execution in France? D.M.L.

A.—It was first used in 1789 at the suggestion of Guillotin, a physician. The Encyclopaedia Britannica says: "Previous to the period (of the Revolution) when it obtained notoriety under its present name, it had been in use in Scotland, England and various parts of the continent. . . . It would appear that no similar machine was ever in general use in England. . . . In Germany the machine was in general use during the Middle Ages. . . . In these remote times it bore different names. . . . Any machine which answered its purpose to the guillotine was called a 'guillotine'." The Times does not undertake to solve conundrums.

Thetis Logging Now Seems Sure

Majority of City Council Favors Selective Policy for Lake Park

A majority of city council today approved a do-it-yourself policy for the long-debated selective logging of Thetis Lake park.

Decision to recommend the move to city council was reached at a morning meeting of the three-man public works committee. (Ald. Arthur Dowell, Ald. G. I. Edgelow and Ald. W. H. Mooney).

Later, Mayor Percy Scurrell and Ald. Austin Curtis gave unofficial blessing to the plan—assuring a majority yes vote when the question reaches council Thursday.

The committee agreed if the Capital Improvement District Commission shows interest in adopting the project at a later date, the city would turn over the job.

Briefly, the plan is to employ a Greater Victoria Water Board forester to indicate which trees can be felled in the back areas (now inaccessible) of the 1,200-acre park.

It was estimated earlier the selective logging would yield $62,000 the first year and $15,000 every five years thereafter on a sustained yield basis.

Revenues are earmarked for park beautification, including a new pavilion, new roads, clearing of weeds from the lakes and opening of a trailer park. It is expected council will call for tenders at the Thursday meeting.

U.S. Cash No Threat Here Envoy Declares

Canada has nothing to fear from U.S. investments in this country.

This was the declaration of Livingston T. Merchant, newly-appointed U.S. Ambassador to Canada, on his arrival in Victoria today.

Mr. Merchant said: "Complete economic domination of one country by another is of course undesirable but that is certainly not the situation between the U.S. and Canada. We are proud to invest in a country of such growing strength. We do not seek to dominate it."

On U.S. policy toward Red China, the tall, quiet-spoken diplomat was forthright.

From the United States point of view, he said, it is "unthinkable" that Communist China should be admitted to the United Nations under present circumstances.

"China's leaders have abused and imprisoned our people," he said, "and they are continually breaking the Korean and Indo-China armistice agreements."

"Never" is a strong word to use, but I would suggest the U.S. may never change her attitude to Red China unless Red China changes her policy."

He had a meeting with Mayor Scurrell at city hall following an informal conference with the premier at the legislative buildings.

Mr. and Mrs. Merchant spent only a few hours in Victoria before returning to Vancouver where they will be guests tonight at a dinner given by Mr. and Mrs. Frank Youngman at the Hotel Vancouver. Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. Frank Ross will be present.

BETWEEN TIMES

By

MONTE ROBERTS

It has taken a good many centuries, but at long last the controversy about the shape of the world has been settled. You know the controversy of which I speak: whether the world is flat, or whether it is round.

Since the beginning of time, there have been two schools of thought regarding the shape of the world.

One school of thought says the shape of the world is 'round. The other school says the shape of the world is 'flat.

(There is a third school of thought, which says the world is in horrible shape, but we won't go into THAT.)

I am now privileged to state the world is round, not flat, and I have this information from no less an authority than My Favorite Wife.

My Favorite Wife has figured it out through Witely logic, which is undeniable, irrefutable, and indubitable.

What happened was, MFW was running a few things through the wash.

And she stated: "The world must be round, because of the cycles which go around the world."

They do? I asked.

"You take washing, for instance," MFW said.

I'd rather YOU took washing, I suggested, but of course I was ignored.

"Why do you wash clothes?" MFW rhetorized. "You start out with clean clothes. You wear the clean clothes, thus making them dirty. Then you take the clean clothes, which have become dirty, and you put them in water, thus making them wet."

"Next, you take the wet clothes out of the water and hang them on the line, to make them dry."

"After which," MFW went on, "you bring the clothes in and sprinkle water on them to make them wet, so you can iron them."

"When you iron them, they become dry."

"And they are also clean," she added.

So, I asked cautiously, what?

"So then," said MFW triumphantly, "You wear the clean clothes to get them dirty so they can be wetted and dried and dampened and ironed and become clean and then worn to be dirtied so they . . ."

What you mean, I said, is this is a bit of circle.

"Of course," said MFW. "It proves the world is round, because everything goes around in a clothes circle."

TOPICS OF THE TIMES

Teachers at the Summer School of Education will hear a lecture and recital Thursday.

Sir Herbert Read, on a lecture tour from York, England, will speak on "The Significance of Children's Art" in Victoria College auditorium at 11 a.m.

That evening at 8:15, the Nettleton Twins, duo pianists from the U.S., will perform at Oak Bay Junior High School.

Playground equipment was wheeled out today in 16 Saanich parks to open a month's program of sports and fun for the youngsters.

Most parks will be supervised from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., five days a week. The Saanich program will continue to Aug. 18.

During the month parks will be visited by Saanich fire and police departments. Special events day will be held each Friday.

Public works committee of city council today approved beautification of Douglas Street near Beacon Hill Park. Formal application for assured $75,000 grant will be made July 19 to Capital Improvement District Commission if council approves on Thursday. Improvements will include parking bays for 300 cars, curbs and gutters.

Red, green and amber traffic lights have been installed at Yates and Blanshard to replace the old hesitation-style red and green lights in use there for many years. The same action will be taken at Fort and Blanshard, at which time lights on Blanshard will be synchronized to permit motorists to traverse the downtown area without halting.

A 17-year-old girl was injured early Sunday when the car in which she was riding failed to make the corner at Dunlevy and Dorset, in Oak Bay, and overturned.

Lorette Hussey, 2720 Heron, suffered back injuries and was admitted to Royal Jubilee Hospital. She was expected to be released today.

Driver of the car, Edward Scribbit, 963 Craigflower, was not hurt.

Two persons were fined $35 and had their licences suspended when they pleaded guilty in city police court today to charges of careless driving.

They were William E. Gardner, 1701 Garnet, and Barbara Jeanne Muttelbury, 4241 Blenkinsop.

Senior councillor of the Victoria Lodge of the Travellers' Association, W. P. George has carved a gavel from Victoria grown Garry oak. It has been shipped for use by the supreme councillor of the United Commercial Travellers' Association in convention at Roanoke, Virginia.

Milnes Landing Man Wins Gyro's Carnival Auto

Winner of a new car Saturday at the Gyro Club carnival here was James Sorboe, Milnes Landing.

Two men made holes-in-one within 10 minutes of each other, each winning $50 in prize money. They were Phil Taylor, Victoria Golf Club professional, and A. E. Williamson, 1130 Clovelly.

Winners of grocery hampers were Mrs. Wilf Sturrock, 1924 Waterloo, and Jack Perry, 344 Richmond.

PRIZE-WINNING SCHOOL BAND GETS WARM WELCOME HOME

Emotion-packed moment was recorded at Pat Bay airport today as S. J. Willis Junior High band arrived home. Band topped all entries in nation's most important instrumental festival at Waterloo.

Ont. Prolonged standing ovation was afforded youngsters at civic reception at school later. Over 300 attended, including mayor, reeves, school board officials.

Crystal Jars Reminiscent Of Penny Candy Containers

By PENNY SAVER

The charm of penny candy jars has been applied to a modern and very attractive trio of crystal pieces in a local store. For flower arrangements, fruit or for bright candy, there are slender crystal containers with squat stems and rounded brass lids. They come in three sizes, priced at $6.95, $8.95 and $11.95. Single or as a set these crystal containers will be real assets to dining or living room decors.

Brass cigarette boxes with classic square hinged lids of heavy glass would make beautiful gifts for those friends who are being married, or for any occasion that calls for an extra-special gift. These boxes come in two sizes with either two or four curved sections to separate different brands of cigarettes. They are $8.95 and $11.95.

Here's something for milady's wardrobe accessories. It's a very feminine ascot especially made to be worn with suits and open neck jackets. There are all colors, prints, polka dots, and stripes in nylon, silk or taffeta at 59 cents each.

"Eat, drink and be merry" hors d'oeuvres napkins are the newest thing for summertime, casual entertaining. In a box shaped like a building are 50 brightly patterned napkins covered with pictures of cheese, salami, crackers and such. The box is complete with striped entation of eleven committee reports.

GREETINGS FROM QUEEN

Mrs. Rossel read greeting telegrams from the international president and from Queen Juliana of the Netherlands. Queen Juliana, who lived in Ottawa with her family during the Second World War, paid tribute to the work of the world-wide business and professional women's group.

"May your convention prove the meeting ground of those who are eager to follow their conscience and find the courage to do so for ever," Queen Juliana said.

"PUBLIC DOMINATION"

There was no justification for such fear today. Women, who have always dominated men, now shared that domination publicly, and women now were welcomed to posts in affairs of state and government.

Welcomes were also extended by Canadian Federation president, Mrs. Hazel Laycock of Winnipeg; Deputy Mayor Albert Gilbeault of Montreal; Mrs. Alan Turner-Bone of Montreal, representing the liaison committee of the women's international organizations and international deputy-president, Mrs. Agda Rossel of Stockholm, Sweden.

Mrs. Rossel, acting as president in the absence of Dame Caroline Haslett of England, will also conduct congress business sessions which begin today with the pres-

Give Grooming Special Attention During Summer

It takes more effort to be well groomed in summer than it does in winter. The reasons for this are evident. Increased perspiration poses a problem and wilting weather makes it difficult to keep our clothes looking crisp and fresh. White and pastel colors show the least bit of dirt, hair is less manageable and clothes wrinkle more readily.

Many women fail to change their beauty routines in order to meet the demands of hot weather. If you use a deodorant several times a week in cold weather you will need it once a day or more on hot days. Two baths a day are better than one and bath salts and bath powders, which seemed luxuries in cold weather, are necessities when the thermometer climbs.

Colognes are pleasant, especially if you buy one with a light fragrance. These are particularly refreshing and cooling when they are applied on the inside of the wrist, at the temples, under the chin and in the crooks of the elbows.

Remember that rushing heats you up. Try to live at a lazier, easier pace during the summer months. This usually is easier to do anyway because many of the winter club meetings and activities are disbanded until fall.

Although you will not believe it until you try it, exercise is cooling. Even though mat exercises may not appeal to you in warm weather you will stand the heat a lot more comfortably if you work up good perspiration once a day. Follow this with a tepid bath and finish off with a cool shower and dusting powder.

Special care should be given to keep the legs entirely free from hair since we so often go without stockings during these months.

Extra attention to the above suggestions will keep you much more attractive and comfortable during these hot days. If you would like my free leaflet "Exercises for Relaxing" send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 24 to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

THE FRENZIED GROPE

pursues the glitter and passes up the gold

The GROPE is an advertiser who'd rather be flashy than-right.

He walks when others are riding, and shaves with a goldplated axe.

Prefers to reach for pie in the sky rather than use the one medium that's proven productive so long for so many.

Fortunately, the GROPE is a rare creature.

Wise advertisers know that the newspaper is basic—no matter what the separate virtues of other media may be.

They know that almost every person in every community across Canada reads a newspaper sometime during each day.

They also know that people have a strong allegiance to their newspapers, believe in newspapers, and shop from newspapers.

Thus, whatever advertising schedule they build, they make newspapers their solid foundation.

No wonder advertisers placed more money in newspapers last year than they did in television, radio, magazines and outdoor—combined!

All business is local . . . and so are all newspapers!

Miss Nancy Anders Married In Ceremony in Cathedral

Summer shades of gladioli, delphiniums and campanula graced the altar Saturday evening for a wedding ceremony in Christ Church Cathedral uniting Nancy Doreen Anders and George Edward Callow.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. W. B. Anders, 2095 Oak Bay Avenue, and the late Mr. Anders, and the groom, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Callow, 430 Parry Street. Dean Brian Whitlow was officiating clergyman.

Escorted by Mr. A. de Goutiere, her brother-in-law, the bride entered the church to strains of "Praise My Soul the King of Heaven." Her waltz-length bridal gown of white nylon tulle, delicately embroidered, was fashioned with scalloped neckline, and scallops edging the skirt. Her headpiece was a pearl crown, holding a chapel veil. The bride carried a bouquet of red roses.

She was attended by matron-of-honor, Mrs. E. H. Glover, sister of the groom, who chose a full-skirted gown of pale blue taffeta, complemented with a bouquet of pink carnations and white daisies.

Washington Republicans Back Ike-Nixon

SEATTLE — Washington Republicans went on record unanimously Saturday for an Eisenhower-Nixon national ticket.

They took action at their state convention which, in effect, bound the 24 delegates and 24 alternates to vote for the nomination of Vice-President Nixon as well as President Eisenhower.

There was no argument on the national ticket. The Eisenhower endorsement was a foregone conclusion, and sentiment developed in advance to add Nixon, Washington's Gov. Arthur B. Langlie, unopposed for his party's nomination for the U.S. Senate, was given an ovation.

Capital City Board Boundaries From Malahat to Albert Head

The area under jurisdiction of the new Capital Improvement District Commission will extend as far as the closest border of Central Saanich, the base of the Malahat and the coast almost as far as Albert Head. Boundaries were set by the provincial cabinet last week. The 11-man district commission will plan beautification projects which will be carried out with provincial grants. Further areas may be included.

The area is defined as reaching north to the boundary between Saanich and Central Saanich extending west to Todd Inlet, down the middle of Finlayson Arm to Goldstream watershed then direct to the coast at Metchosin, a mile or two south of Albert Head. The commission includes representatives of Victoria, Saanich, Oak Bay and Esquimalt and various government departments.

Boy Scouts Scrub Vancouver Monuments

VANCOUVER (CP) — Four historical monuments here will get a scrubbing Tuesday night as part of a summer-long project of Boy Scouts in southeast Vancouver.

They are the Fraser Midden monument, the Simon Fraser monument, the Spanish explorers' monument and the Kit-silano beach flagpole.

Bill Muir Loses Heart-Breaker; Beaten by Last Mile

FEELS FINE TODAY

Still with his Juan de Fuca whiskers, marathon swimmer Bill Muir was feeling fine today after his tremendous 10-hour, near-successful try at the strait.

BLACK LINE shows Bill Muir's route in best-yet attempt at beating Juan de Fuca from Victoria shore. He was caught in tide eddies at the end.

ONE KILLED AS PROP FLIES OFF TCA PLANE

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—One person was reported dead, five others injured, when a Trans-Canada Air Lines Vickers Viscount made an emergency landing at Windsor airport early this afternoon.

Reports from witnesses on the airport were that the aircraft, the new English-made turbo prop liner, threw one propeller in flight, on its way into Windsor, and parts of the spinning prop tore into the side of the fuselage.

Names of the dead person and those injured were not immediately known.

The injured included a man and his wife and a child.

Speaker Accedes To PM's Request

'My Confidence Is Unshaken', St. Laurent States in House

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent announced today he feels Rene Beaudoin should continue as Speaker of the Commons and that Mr. Beaudoin has agreed to do so.

"My confidence in Mr. Speaker is unshaken," Mr. St. Laurent said at the opening of today's House sitting, to a storm of applause from Liberal benches.

He said he has conferred with the 44-year-old Speaker and found him "willing to subordinate his personal feelings to his duty to parliament and the country, and to continue in the office in which he has served with great distinction."

The statement of the prime minister, who returned to Ottawa Saturday from the London conference of Commonwealth prime ministers, was the government's reply to Speaker Beaudoin's tender of resignation last Monday.

His statement brought a shouted reply from an unidentified Opposition member: "The Liberals are yellow."

Speaker Beaudoin had said last week he wanted to resign as soon as possible "to regain my full freedom of speech" after Progressive Conservative and CCF charges that he was no longer impartial.

Mr. St. Laurent said it is not hard to understand the reaction of any man, regardless of his office, who feels he has been unfairly charged and who has been unable to reply. All would sympathize with that desire. It had been what Speaker Beaudoin wanted to achieve by his offer of resignation.

The prime minister said that the offer, however, does not constitute the formal act required as a resignation.

MPs CALL CRUMP ON BOXCAR SHORTAGE

OTTAWA (CP)—The Commons agricultural committee voted today to call President N. R. Crump of the CPR to answer charges the railway failed to deliver a sufficient number of boxcars over a recent six-week period for the movement of western grain.

Mr. Crump now is travelling in Europe and the committee decided he could designate a company official to represent him.

The decision to call Mr. Crump was made after Transport Controller Roy W. Milner told the committee last Friday that between March 15 and April 30 the CPR had let him down badly when he had requested an increased flow of boxcars.

Fake Abductors Try To Steal Ransom Money

NEW YORK (UP)—Two men have confessed they posed as the kidnapers of five-week-old Peter Weinberger, lured his mother to a Sunday night rendezvous and attempted to steal the $5,000 ransom she carried, police said today.

Assistant District Attorney Thomas Cullen of Queens County said "so far as we have determined, they are not the kidnapers."

He said they will be charged with attempted extortion, carrying a possible five to 10-year prison sentence on conviction, and with giving false information in a kidnapping, which carries a five to 15-year penalty.

The men summoned Mrs. Betty Weinberger, 33, by telephone from her Long Island home to a New York City rendezvous, Cullen said.

They attempted to make contact with her there but were frightened away, he said. Cullen said they had told her on the telephone that she would find her infant son in a nearby Catholic church after she paid the money.

LONELY CORNER

Their first telephone call to the Weinberger home in suburban Westbury was made at 7.30 last night, Cullen said. It led to the mother's heartbreaking journey to a lonely street corner.

Cullen said the men waited in a bar in Jackson Heights from which they called until 10.20 p.m. and then drove past Mrs. Weinberger's car. They saw a flashlight, he said, suspected police were involved, and left.

They made three later calls to the Weinberger home, police said. The men were reported to have complained: "What's the idea? The place was jumping with cops. Bring the money to the Dowling & Cusack Bar and Grill on Roosevelt Ave. and leave it in the phone booth in the cellar. The baby will be left in a rear pew of St. Joan of Arc Church."

The Roman Catholic church referred to is about 10 blocks from the bar. By this time, however, police had been called by an alert telephone operator, and the instructions apparently were not carried out.

The men, Robert Giebler, 26, and Gordon Thomas Rowell, 24, first claimed they had made the calls because "we just wanted to see the cops run around."

Cullen said the extortion plot was originated by Rowell, however, because "they wanted the money. They felt that they could grab the money and get away." Both men are broke and out of work, Cullen said. Giebler's wife is expecting their fourth child.

All-Star Baseball Pitchers Named

(See Story Page 6)

WASHINGTON (UP)—Mickey Mantle of the New York Yankees will start in Tuesday's all-star baseball game, and the starting pitchers will be Billy Pierce of the Chicago White Sox and Bob Friend of the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Mantle's status and the identity of the starting pitchers were announced today at a joint American National League news conference.

Friend will be the first Pittsburgh pitcher ever to start an all-star game. He has a record of 11 victories and seven defeats so far this year.

DATE TO REMEMBER

July 8 Seems Right For Strait Swim

Straits' swimmers soon may be circling July 8 on their calendars as a date to remember.

A year ago Sunday, after having fought adverse weather for weeks, Bert Thomas landed at Exe Point to complete an all-night swim from Port Angeles across a flat calm strait.

Bill Muir, Saanich surveyor, bucked wind and tide in his previous attempts to swim the for-bidding channel, but when July 8 rolled around, down went wind and sea.

And he almost made it. Weatherman William Mackie attached no great significance.

Weather Ideal But Tides and Cold Win

By TONY DICKASON

Bill Muir, the Saanich surveyor, lost a heart-breaking attempt to swim the Strait of Juan de Fuca Sunday when he was pulled from the water at seven minutes after midnight last night barely a mile and a quarter from the U.S. shore after swimming from Victoria.

Muir, trying the strait for the eighth time, had covered nearly 17 miles before the bitter cold and a strong ebb tide repulsed him almost within touching distance of his goal.

He fought 10 terrific hours, to be pulled from the water about a mile from the U.S. shore about five miles west of Port Angeles.

Bill was almost unconscious. "It was pretty grim. Yeah! I was in bad shape," he said today. As he talked he walked, and stretched. Failure to do this would have meant muscles binding.

Bill is 220 pounds of muscle. His valiant attempt on the 47-degree waters of Juan de Fuca was his third this year. He's

'I Never Got Warm Again'

As he spoke, after only two and one-half hours sleep, his hands still shook slightly as he held a Times swim map.

"That's where I got cold and never got warm again," he said, pointing to the location off Albert Head.

This was about three hours out. He stuck it for another seven hours.

His target was Port Angeles. Caught in an ebb tide, he was swept about five miles west of the U.S. city.

Navigator Bud Phillips had nothing but praise for the swimmer. "He swam almost a straight line, and through a seven-knot tide. Bill should certainly try it again." Bill himself is disillusioned. "There's no glory in it," he said.

For his swim attempts, he's been taking time off his holidays from Saanich municipality.

"Now I'm broke. Maybe I'll attempt the Jaycee mass swim later."

He swam 14 miles the day before, from Albert Head to a point 14 miles from Victoria. In the Sunday swim Bill stroked a constant 26 to 30 per minute, breast and side stroke. He varied "to relieve the monotony."

Big Ben, Ove Helped Out

No man to talk about himself, Bill plugged his friends. "I want to thank my trainer Bud, and the radio station for being so patient with me. And Big Ben Laughren and Ove Witt."

Strait challenger Ben Laughren and Ove Witt, coach and manager, were aboard CKDA's vessel. It was Ove who worked over Bill's sore body when he was pulled aboard.

Despite all the fortitude in the world, Bill went under twice within minutes of the end.

He wouldn't come out, until absolutely beaten, water bruised and suffering.

Aboard the Chatham Chief he was wrapped in blankets and fed two sandwiches. Two vessels accompanied the swimmer, George Polson's Wen Sue and the radio boat's Wen Sue.

Bill shook his head when asked about Marilyn Bell, due here in mid-July for a strait bid.

Body Ready to Quit, Mind Not

"If she can stand the water," he said, leaving his opinion hanging.

Sincerity of the swimmer is tops.

Said he: "My body was ready to come out of the water at Albert Head, but my mind wasn't. I had to muster courage to stay in."

To try and beat the cold, he was covered with whale grease. It didn't work.

Strange thing about strait

Swimming. The men in the water get periods of violent depression. It hit Bill off Albert Head. They feel so grim they want to sink and forget.

Genial Bill knows this from his previous attempts, and now fights it successfully.

His attempt came exactly a year to the day from the first successful crossing of the strait. Bert Thomas of Tacoma, Wash., made it in 11 hours and 10 minutes July 7, 1955.

DUKE FIXES GOAL

Humanistic Outlook Urged by Consort

OXFORD, England (Reuters)—The Duke of Edinburgh said today he saw no advantage in a prosperous and powerful nation if it achieved its position "at the expense of human freedom and happiness."

The Duke addressed some 300 men and women from almost every part of the Commonwealth at the opening of a Commonwealth conference on human problems in industry. He is president of the three-week conference.

"It may not be very easy to decide quite what we are aiming at in this modern world of ours," he said, "but whatever the target we must take into account that all people are primarily citizens and not just workers with a bit of private life."

The Duke suggested four basic ideas for the conference to develop:

1. Are there lessons from the past which can help overcome the problems of present industrialization?

2. Can the new industries of the Commonwealth help each other?

3. What things make for a good factory, a happy community and a satisfied individual?

4. What is the viewpoint in industrial problems of the board room, the factory floor, the labor union, and the research, production, and personnel departments?

"I make no claim whatsoever to any special knowledge of industrial problems—least of all of industrial relations which is a highly specialized subject in itself," he said.

"But the fact remains that I have probably seen more different kinds of industrial establishments than all of you put together—if not, it certainly seems like it sometimes."

"From cottage industry in Malta to aluminum smelting in British Columbia, from car assembly in New Zealand to locomotive workshops in Nigeria..."

"From old industries like the potteries to the new iron ore works in northern Quebec, from mixed industry towns like the English Midlands to one-industry villages on the Welsh coal-fields."

"At first it was all rather bewildering and strange, but slowly and by degrees I found myself making comparisons between the different places and works..."

"Later on I came to realize that a mine is a mine, a factory is a factory and a steelworks is a steelworks, whatever part of the world it is in."

The duke said the only noticeable difference was that some factories were happy and others depressing places to visit.

...SWIM

Continued From Page 1 to the similarity in the weather conditions of the two days an even year apart, and called it a coincidence.

TENDENCY ONLY

"Our records of 57 degrees, though, show a slight temperature 'peak' on that day. The tendency is there, but it is not reliable," he said.

As examples he showed that in 1951 July 8 was sunny, warm and windy. In 1952 it was hot—"a really good day"—and in 1953 was coldish and windy. In 1954 July 8 was in a poor period, and produced only a 65-degree temperature and a choppy strait.

"There is a similarity, but it is not persistent," he said of the records through the years.

Although Muir had to be taken from the water almost within shouting distance of the United States shore, residents of Victoria and his home district of Saanich were unanimous in their praise of his 10-hour struggle.

OFFICIAL PRAISE

Reeve Arthur Ash sent a congratulatory telegram to Muir today on behalf of the residents of Saanich.

"I also telephoned him on my own behalf," the reeve said. "For having dogged determination alone he deserves to win."

Councillors J. Ronald Grant and George Austin of Saanich council had words of congratulation for the doughty swimmer.

"It was a gallant effort, and it was unfortunate that he was unable to finish," said Coun. Grant. "I wish him luck in any future effort."

"I felt badly that he couldn't finish," said Coun. Austin. "He's a swell fellow, and I certainly want to congratulate him. I really would have been happy if he'd made it."

One group of citizens that had nothing but praise for Muir were the Lake Hill businessmen and women who sponsored his previous strait attempt.

CALGARY (CP)—Governor

General Vincent Massey today gets a real taste of the wild western atmosphere of Calgary at stampede time, starting off a full day of activity by heading a two-hour parade and winding it up with a look at the chuck wagon races, perhaps the most exciting of all rodeo sports.

Mr. Massey and his party tasted western hospitality and beef Sunday, attending a breakfast party at a farm south of the city and an outdoor barbecue at the football stadium, and his secretary and son, Lionel Massey, said his excellency enjoyed every minute of it.

Today's schedule calls for the governor-general's party to lead the parade through downtown Calgary.

The weather was perfect, a sunny 75 degrees with just enough breeze to keep it comfortable. Mr. Massey soon fell into the swing of things, trading the black bowler hat he wore when he stepped from the plane Saturday for the white 10-gallon westerner that he received from the city of Calgary during his last visit here two years ago.

10 DAYS IN B.C. The Calgary visit will end Tuesday when the governor-general's special railway coach leaves for Jasper and Prince Rupert, B.C., via Edmonton.

The party will spend 10 days in British Columbia. Two records had already been broken before the world famous stampede got under way today.

Officials of the exhibition and stampede reported that a total of 656 entries is a record since the yearly event was commenced in 1912. Last year, the total entry was 617.

The other mark that has been better is that of 103 entries for the steer decorating competition.

Arena director Don McLean said that the entry lists showed that every major winner in the 1955 stampede had returned to defend their hard-won honors.

Heading the list is Casey Tibbs of Fort Pierre, South Dakota, all-round champion

No Change In Red China Stand---Nixon

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—Vice-President Richard Nixon flew homeward Sunday after declaring President Eisenhower was still firmly opposed to recognition of Red China and admission of Peking to the United Nations.

Any suggestion that the president had modified his position (U.S. recognition and UN membership for the Red regime) was false, he told Gen. Chiang Kai-Shek.

Expressing "admiration for your unyielding stand against communism," the message told Chiang "let there be no misapprehension about our own steadfastness in continuing to support the Republic of China." "International communism alter its tactics from time to time but we have as yet no evidence of any change in its objectives," Eisenhower added. "The American people and government realize this."

Titanic Sinking

BREMERHAVEN, West Germany (Reuters)—Dr. Heinrich Wietfeldt, after long study, says he believes the real reason the British liner Titanic struck an iceberg in the Atlantic in 1912 was because the lookout had "night blindness." The night of April 5 that year was clear and the sea calm.

Entry was gained through a rear window.

Threat by Turks Hits Cyprus Plan

LONDON (UP)—Reliable sources said today that Turkey has threatened to quit the North American Treaty organization and the Baghdad Pact if Britain goes through with her plan of self-rule for Cyprus.

Turkey's firm stand on the Cyprus question has forced Britain to redraft its earlier plan to offer self-rule to the strife-torn Mediterranean island, as well as a prospect of self-determination in 10 or 15 years.

This plan is now dead and a new one is being worked out, officials said.

Haste is necessary because Parliament goes into its summer recess later this month, the sources explained.

INSPECTING $25,000 COLLECTION of Mexican art to be on display at Crystal Garden this week are

'STRANGE, RICH, CLIMATE OF FEELING'

Mexican Art Show Proves 'Impressive'

Co-sponsored by The Victoria Daily Times and Canadian Pacific Airlines, an exhibition of Mexican art valued at $25,000 will be open to the public in the Crystal Garden hall from 7 p.m. to 10 p.m. Tuesday. Tonight the exhibition is to be previewed by the Mexican Council from Vancouver and a group of Victoria artists. Colin Graham, curator of the Art Gallery, has written a critical analysis of it for The Times. The show will open free to the public from 7 to 10 p.m. daily throughout the week.

By COLIN GRAHAM

To enter the exhibition of Mexican painting which opens Tuesday at the Crystal Garden is, for a Canadian, to plunge into a rich, strange, and totally different climate of feeling.

In place of the traditional reserve and restraint of Canadian shows, these Mexican have a refreshing, free-wheeling candor and intensity. When they combine this Latin richness of emotion with the sombre earthiness of their Aztec and Toltec traditions, the result can be impressive.

This is also popular painting in the sense that it is obviously close to the lives, aspirations, pleasures and tragedies of the Mexican people. As such, it should present no difficulties of interpretation to the average man in the street.

In further contrast to Canadian painting, where the human element is apt to be lost in an avalanche of pure landscape, it is interesting to note that of the 46 canvases on view, more than half give primacy to the human figure. These latter range all the way from the violence of Federico Cantos' apocalyptic "Four Horsemen" to the placidity of Paul Aguilano's "Maternity."

For those seeking typical Mexican color there are scenes of the market place, fishermen, workers, and of age-old religious festivals. Nefero's "Holy Week Penitents," for instance, has a folk-like, medieval sincerity. Traces of the direct influence of Spanish painting are few. Motaya's crisp still life of fruit and vegetables—one of the quietest but ablest pieces in the show—perhaps bows in the direction of Zurbarán, while Cantos' "Four Horsemen" suggests El Greco via Siqueiros.

But generally speaking the liveliness and vitality seem to spring directly from Mexican life itself. The remarkable thing is that wherever the painters have deliberately invoked the influence of their Aztec or Toltec forbears, the result has usually been pure gain in terms of monumental force rather than the archaeological academicisms one might expect. Such a case, I would guess, is to be seen in Pacheco's "Los Panos" and "Yucatan Country," two of the best works in the show and both remarkable for austere and monumental strength. Several of the artists represented, such as Diego Rivera and Carlos Merida, have reputations that are international in scope.

The show as a unit opens a most intriguing window into Mexican life and feeling, and anyone who imagines that these can be summed up in the words sombrero, serape and siesta undoubtedly owes himself a visit to the Crystal Garden this week.

Six Injured In Shawnigan Car Crash

A head-on collision of two automobiles near Shawnigan Lake late Saturday sent four persons to hospital and injured two others.

The accident occurred about 5 p.m. Saturday at a slight curve on the Shawnigan Lake road, a mile and a half south of the lake.

The injured were brought to St. Joseph's Hospital by the Langford RCMP detachment ambulance. All were reported in good condition today.

RCMP at Duncan identified the two drivers as William Bernard Nikkels, 18, R.R. 2, Victoria, and Raymond Frederick Hughes, 18, 1130 Monterey, Victoria.

Nikkels suffered abrasions to his chin and arm and was released from hospital after treatment.

Three other youths riding in his car also were hurt: Anthony Gardner, 20, Happy Valley Road, neck and shoulder injuries;

Allan Lequesne, 19, Leigh Road, deep cuts on his forehead and right cheek;

Basil Wells, 17, Happy Valley Road, cut forehead and rib injuries.

Hughes and a passenger in his car, Nancy Clark, 2605 Cotswold, escaped with a shaking up.

Police estimated total damage to the two cars at $1,700.

Search Continues For 90-Year-Old

Disappearance of an aged Victoria man from an eastbound CNR train is being investigated by railway officials.

John Schattenkirk, 90, of 2109 Chambers, boarded the train at Vancouver June 5 to visit two daughters in Yorkton, Sask.

He hasn't been seen since. His luggage arrived in Yorkton but CNR officials said it was never claimed.

Mrs. J. T. Schattenkirk, 350 Berwick, a daughter-in-law, said today the family has no idea where he could be.

He left Victoria June 4 and was put aboard the train the next day by his son.

Barry Theodore Chanakos, HMCS Naden, was remanded to Tuesday in city police court today on a charge of criminally negligent driving.

The charge arose from an accident at Pandora and Blanshard Sunday in which Wallace Fong, 19, of 670 Herald, was injured.

Fong suffered cuts and abrasions on his arms and head. He was reported in good condition in St. Joseph's Hospital today.

Chanakos also faces a charge of failing to remain at the scene of an accident arising out of the same mishap.

Mayor Percy Scurrell summed up speeches to returning victorious members of S. J. Willis Junior High band today: "You have brought credit to yourselves and honor to the city."

City council is slated to discuss the importance to the city of the fact the band, all members under 16, won top honors in under-18 band festival at Waterloo, Ontario. The festival is most important for instrumentalists in Canada and several bands from U.S. took part.

Marilyn Bell Wants To Visit Crippled Tots

Never Considered Jaycee Mass Swim

Marilyn Bell plans a solo attempt to swim Juan de Fuca Strait and never had any intention of entering the mass swim sponsored by the Victoria Chamber of Commerce.

This was explained by her sponsors today in comment on a statement by Bill Davidson, Jaycee swim chairman, that Marilyn would not be eligible for the mass swim prize if she gave exclusive rights on her stories.

Marilyn's swim is sponsored by the Toronto Telegram, The Victoria Times, and Weekend Magazine.

Marilyn will get a civic send-off from Toronto Thursday night. She will leave Toronto by plane next Sunday morning, arriving at Patricia Bay at 6.45 p.m. where she will get an official welcome.

She plans a training period of about six weeks, depending on the final date chosen by her navigator for the swim, and the existing weather conditions.

RICHES AT STAKE

Marilyn's sponsors explained that she fully realizes the enormity of the task ahead of her and for that reason is planning to swim alone.

Marilyn, who has conquered Lake Ontario and the English Channel, will get $20,000 for her effort, $10,000 more if she succeeds.

Marilyn, who is studying physiotherapy, will attend a garden party to be given in her honor by the Cerebral Palsy Association of Lower Vancouver Island, July 15.

The garden party will be given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Husband, Rutland road, from 3 to 5 p.m. It will be open to the public.

In a letter received by the association today, Marilyn said she is looking forward to meeting as many cerebral palsied children as possible.

Saved Life Off Willows

Two Victoria boys who braved a pounding surf off Willows beach on April 15 last year to save the life of a young dockyard worker are among 37 persons across the Dominion awarded parchment certificates by the Royal Canadian Humane Association today.

The local recipients are Lorne Dale Priestley, 16, of 1621 Hollywood Crescent, and John Alexander Murdoch, 13, 2240 Beach, for saving R. E. Mills, 1158 View Street.

Among others to receive certificates are C. D. Wellard, formerly of Victoria, lighthouse-keeper at Carmanah Point Light station on the west coast of Vancouver Island. He rescued Karl von Hartmann from drowning near the light on Oct. 5, 1955.

Robert Morris, 13, Ganges, Salt Spring Island, for rescuing Kenneth Ashlee from a swimming pool at Harbor House, Aug. 1, 1955.

Lieut. Robert James Paul, HMCS Jonquiere, for rescuing Eddie Larson at the CPR pier at Vancouver July 17, 1955.

A gold medal, the association's top award, was posthumously awarded to George Mosbaugh, a superintendent of the Anglo-Canadian Leather Company of Huntsville, Ont., who climbed into a vat he knew was filled with deadly fumes and died in an unsuccessful attempt to save two fellow workers.

The two Victoria teen-agers who received certificates arrived just in time to save the life of Mills off Willows Beach.

Mills had entered the water after taking a $100 wager with a fellow worker that he could stay in the cold sea for an hour. He won his bet but it nearly cost him his life.

Mills tried to swim back to the shore, but the waves proved too much for him. A group at the beach noticed he was in trouble and tried to launch a small boat, but it was hurled back onto the beach by the rollers.

Lorne Priestley rushed into the water and was up to his shoulders before he was able to grab Mills. Alex Murdoch assisted him in pulling Mills ashore.

ASK THE TIMES

Q.—News dispatches recently told of the guillotining of rebels in Algeria who had been convicted at trials. When was the guillotine adopted as the instrument of execution in France?

D.M.L.

A.—It was first used in 1789 at the suggestion of Guillotin, a physician. The Encyclopaedia Britannica says: "Previous to the period (of the Revolution) when it obtained notoriety under its present name, it had been in use in Scotland, England and various parts of the continent. . . . It would appear that no similar machine was ever in general use in England. . . . In Germany the machine was in general use during the Middle Ages. . . . In those remote times it bore different names. Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to The Times, addressed to 'Ask The Times Editor.' Questions and answers will be published daily. All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve conundrums."

Four-Car Bingo Tonight at Arena

Victoria Contractors' Association: Pacific Club, 6.30 p.m.
Victoria Kiwanis: Empress Hotel ballroom, 12.10 p.m. Mayor Percy Scurrell will speak on "Civic Affairs."
North Kiwanis: Monterey Restaurant, dinner at 6.15 p.m.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES

Teachers at the Summer School of Education will hear a lecture and recital Thursday.

Sir Herbert Read, on a lecture tour from York, England, will speak on "The Significance of Children's Art" in Victoria College auditorium at 11 a.m.

That evening at 8.15, the Nettleton Twins, duo pianists from the U.S., will perform at Oak Bay Junior High School.

Playground equipment was wheeled out today in 16 Saanich parks to open a month's program of sports and fun for the youngsters.

Most parks will be supervised from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., five days a week. The Saanich program will continue to Aug. 18.

During the month parks will be visited by Saanich fire and police departments. Special events day will be held each Friday.

Public works committee of city council today approved beautification of Douglas Street near Beacon Hill Park. Formal application for assured $75,000 grant will be made July 19 to Capital Improvement District Commission if council approves on Thursday. Improvements will include parking bays for 300 cars, curbs and gutters.

Red, green and amber traffic lights have been installed at Yates and Blanshard to replace the old hesitation-style red and green lights in use there for many years. The same action will be taken at Fort and Blanshard, at which time lights on Blanshard will be synchronized to permit motorists to traverse the downtown area without halting.

A 17-year-old girl was injured early Sunday when the car in which she was riding failed to make the corner at Dunlevy and Dorset, in Oak Bay, and overturned.

Lorette Hussey, 2720 Heron, suffered back injuries and was admitted to Royal Jubilee Hospital. She was expected to be released today.

Driver of the car, Edward Scribbit, 863 Craigflower, was not hurt.

Two persons were fined $35 and had their licences suspended when they pleaded guilty in city police court today to charges of careless driving.

They were William E. Gardner, 1701 Garnet, and Barbara Jeanne Muttibury, 4241 Blenkinsop.

Senior councillor of the Victoria Lodge of the Travellers' Association, W. P. George has carved a gavel from Victoria grown Garry oak. It has been shipped for use by the supreme councillor of the United Commercial Travellers' Association in convention at Roanoke, Virginia.

Police are seeking a tall, dark-haired man who molested a six-year-old girl in Beacon Hill Park Saturday.

The man lured the tot into his car near her home and drove her to the park. He returned her to within a block of her home and the girl walked to the house.

Police reported a number of cases of indecent exposure and attempted molesting during the weekend.

Barry Theodore Chanakos, HMCS Naden, was remanded to Tuesday in city police court today on a charge of criminally negligent driving.

The charge arose from an accident at Pandora and Blanshard Sunday in which Wallace Fong, 19, of 670 Herald, was injured.

Fong suffered cuts and abrasions on his arms and head. He was reported in good condition in St. Joseph's Hospital today.

Chanakos also faces a charge of failing to remain at the scene of an accident arising out of the same mishap.

Mayor Percy Scurrell summed up speeches to returning victorious members of S. J. Willis Junior High band today: "You have brought credit to yourselves and honor to the city."

City council is slated to discuss the importance to the city of the fact the band, all members under 16, won top honors in under-18 band festival at Waterloo, Ontario. The festival is most important for instrumentalists in Canada and several bands from U.S. took part.

Winners of a new car Saturday at the Gyro Club carnival here was James Sorboe, Milnes Landing.

Two men made holes-in-one within 10 minutes of each other, each winning $50 in prize money. They were Phil Taylor, Victoria Golf Club professional, and A. E. Williamson, 1130 Clovelly.

Winners of grocery hampers were Mrs. Wilf Sturrock, 1924 Waterloo, and Jack Perry, 344 Richmond.

U.S. Cash No Threat Here Envoy Declares

Canada has nothing to fear from U.S. investments in this country.

This was the declaration of Livingston T. Merchant, newly-appointed U.S. Ambassador to Canada, on his arrival in Victoria today.

Mr. Merchant said: "Complete economic domination of one country by another is of course undesirable but that is certainly not the situation between the U.S. and Canada. We are proud to invest in a country of such growing strength. We do not seek to dominate it."

On U.S. policy toward Red China the tall, quiet-spoken diplomat was forthright.

From the United States point of view, he said, it is "unthinkable" that Communist China should be admitted to the United Nations under present circumstances.

"China's leaders have abused and imprisoned our people," he said, "and they are continually breaking the Korean and Indo-China armistice agreements. 'Never' is a strong word to use, but I would suggest the U.S. may never change her attitude to Red China unless Red China changes her policy."

He added Americans are eager to settle the Columbia River hydro question and other boundary waters problems.

The two countries have never failed to solve a common problem, he said, and they would reach agreement on this matter although it was a "terrible complicated problem."

He had a meeting with Mayor Scurrell at city hall following an informal conference with the premier at the legislative buildings.

Mr. and Mrs. Merchant spent only a few hours in Victoria before returning to Vancouver where they will be guests tonight at a dinner given by Mr. and Mrs. Frank Youngman at Hotel Vancouver.

Lieutenant Governor and Mrs. Frank Ross will be present.

PRIZE-WINNING SCHOOL BAND GETS WARM WELCOME HOME

Emotion-packed moment was recorded at Pat Bay airport today as S. J. Willis Junior High band arrived home. Band topped all entries in nation's most important instrumental festival at Waterloo, Ont. Prolonged standing ovation was afforded youngsters at civic reception at school later. Over 300 attended, including mayor, reeves, school board officials.

SHOPPING GUIDE

Crystal Jars Reminiscent Of Penny Candy Containers

By PENNY SAVER

The charm of penny candy jars has been applied to a modern and very attractive trio of crystal pieces in a local store. For flower arrangements, fruit or for bright candy, there are slender crystal containers with squat stems and rounded brass lids. They come in three sizes, priced at $6.95, $8.95 and $11.95. Single or as a set these crystal containers will be real assets to dining or living room decors.

Brass cigarette boxes with classic square hinged lids of heavy glass would make beautiful gifts for those friends who are being married, or for any occasion that calls for an extra-special gift. These boxes come in two sizes with either two or four curved sections to separate different brands of cigarettes. They are $8.95 and $11.95.

Here's something for milady's wardrobe accessories. It's a very feminine ascot especially made to be worn with suits and open neck jackets. There are all colors, prints, polka dots, and stripes in nylon, silk or taffeta at 59 cents each.

"Eat, drink and be merry" hors d'oeuvres napkins are the newest thing for summertime, casual entertaining. In a box shaped like a building are 50 brightly patterned napkins covered with pictures of cheese, salami, crackers and such. The box is complete with striped awning and aproned proprietor standing at the door. Through a cellophane "window," you can see the many foods printed on the napkins—they seem to be on display. To give your party an extra lift, these napkins are terrific. The box of 50 costs $1. Humorous take-offs on titles of arias from operas are printed on the "Grand Opera" box of napkins. Free, and rather chance, translations of phrases and titles will cause many a chuckle. For 36 of these sip 'n snack napkins, each one different, you pay $1.50.

Barhounds, dogs with appealing and cleverly drawn expressions and outfits, grace the gay napkins in another box. A real humorous touch to help the clever hostess is seen in these, which are also 36 for $1.50.

Call me at 2-3131 and I'll tell you where to find the items mentioned in the column today or during past weeks.

Transport Minister Speaks At Montreal BPM Congress

MONTREAL (CP) — More than 850 women from some 23 countries met high atop Mount Royal Sunday to officially open the 7th triennial conference of the International Federation of Business and Professional Women.

Meeting in Canada for the first time, the congress began Saturday with a United Nations seminar, and ends Thursday. It will be followed Friday and Saturday by the annual meeting of the Canadian Federation.

Transport Minister Marler, welcoming the group on behalf of Prime Minister St. Laurent, said that 25 years ago such a gathering of women at Mount Royal's Chateau would have "struck terror in the hearts of most men."

"PUBLIC DOMINATION"

There was no justification for such fear today. Women, who have always dominated men, now shared that domination publicly, and women now were welcomed to posts in affairs of state and government.

Welcomes were also extended by Canadian Federation president, Mrs. Hazel Laycock of Winnipeg; Deputy Mayor Albert Gilbeault of Montreal; Mrs. Alan Turner-Bone of Montreal, representing the liaison committee of the women's international organizations and international deputy-president, Mrs. Agda Rosell of Stockholm, Sweden.

Mrs. Rosell, acting as president in the absence of Dame Caroline Haslett of England, will also conduct congress business sessions which begin today with the presentation of eleven committee reports.

GREETINGS FROM QUEEN

Mrs. Rosell read greeting telegrams from the international president and from Queen Juliana of the Netherlands.

Queen Juliana, who lived in Ottawa with her family during the Second World War, paid tribute to the work of the world-wide business and professional women's group.

"May your convention prove the meeting ground of those who are eager to follow their conscience and find the courage to do so for ever," Queen Juliana said.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Give Grooming Special Attention During Summer

It takes more effort to be well-groomed in summer than it does in winter. The reasons for this are evident. Increased perspiration poses a problem and wilting weather makes it difficult to keep your clothes looking crisp and fresh. White and pastel colors show the least bit of dirt, hair is less manageable and clothes wrinkle more readily. Many women fail to change their beauty routines in order to meet the demands of hot weather. If you use a deodorant several times a week in cold weather you will need it once a day or more on hot days. Two baths a day are better than one and bath salts and bath powders, which seemed luxuries in cold weather, are necessities when the thermometer climbs. Cologne is pleasant, especially if you buy one with a light fragrance. These are particularly refreshing and cooling when they are applied on the inside of the wrist, at the temples, under the chin and in the crooks of the elbows. Remember that rushing heats you up. Try to live at a lazier, easier pace during the summer months. This usually is easier to do anyway because many of the winter club meetings and activities are disbanded until fall.

Although you will not believe it until you try it, exercise is cooling. Even though mat exercises may not appeal to you in warm weather you will stand the heat a lot more comfortably if you work up good perspiration once a day. Follow this with a tepid bath and finish off with a cool shower and dusting powder.

Special care should be given to keep the legs entirely free from hair since we so often go without stockings during these months.

Extra attention to the above suggestions will keep you much more attractive and comfortable during these red-hot days. If you would like my free leaflet "Exercises for Relaxing" send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 24 to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

THE FRENZIED GROPE

pursues the glitter and passes up the gold

The GROPE is an advertiser who'd rather be flashy than right.

He walks when others are riding, and shaves with a goldplated axe.

Prefers to reach for pie in the sky rather than use the one medium that's proven productive so long for so many.

Fortunately, the GROPE is a rare creature.

Wise advertisers know that the newspaper is basic—no matter what the separate virtues of other media may be.

They know that almost every person in every community across Canada reads a newspaper sometime during each day.

They also know that people have a strong allegiance to their newspapers, believe in newspapers, and shop from newspapers.

Thus, whatever advertising schedule they build, they make newspapers their solid foundation.

No wonder advertisers placed more money in newspapers last year than they did in television, radio, magazines and outdoor—combined!

All business is local . . . and so are all newspapers!

Miss Nancy Anders Married In Ceremony in Cathedral

Summer shades of gladioli, delphiniums and campanula graced the altar Saturday evening for a wedding ceremony in Christ Church Cathedral uniting Nancy Doreen Anders and George Edward Callow.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Callow, 430 Parry Street. Dean Brian Whitlow was officiating clergyman.

Escorted by Mr. A. de Goutiere, her brother-in-law, the bride entered the church to strains of "Praise My Soul the King of Heaven." Her waltz-length bridal gown of white nylon tulle, delicately embroidered, was fashioned with scalloped neckline, and scalloped edging the skirt. Her headpiece was a pearl crown, holding a chapel veil. The bride carried a bouquet of red roses.

She was attended by matron-of-honor, Mrs. E. H. Glover, sister of the groom, who chose a full-skirted gown of pale blue taffeta, complemented with a bouquet of pink carnations and white daisies.

Bridesmaids Mrs. A. de Goutiere, Miss Bernice Anders and junior bridesmaid Miss Janet Anders, all sisters of the bride, were dressed alike in yellow taffeta. They carried bouquets in blue and white. Best man was brother of the groom, John Callow, and ushering were Charles Callow and Robert Callow. Soloist at the church was Mrs. Gordon Champion. At a reception in the Uplands Golf club, A. S. Miller proposed the toast to the bride. For a honeymoon trip to Banff and Jasper, Mrs. Callow wore a nutmeg toned wool sheath dress, with contrasting tweed jacket, and brown and parchment colored accessories.

GRAIN

WINNIPEG

Winnipeg (CP)—Sharp advance in July flax highlighted active trade today on the Winnipeg grain exchange. Other grains held to a narrow but firm range.
July flax scored the maximum gain of 15 cents at one stage. It closed 13 cents higher while other months made sharp advances.
By buying for exporters and shipper's found offerings light. Trade reports said an undisclosed amount of flax had been sold to the United Kingdom and the continent.
Shipper buying in barley was accompanied by report of the sale of parcels lots to the United Kingdom. Shippers also were buying a lot of oats and rye. Offerings were generally light.

MARKET SUMMARIES

Industrials Gain 2 Points at Toronto

TORONTO (CP)—The stock market marked time in mid-afternoon trading today after it rolled forward during the morning. Industrials still managed to hang on to a two-point gain in their index and base metals were up just over a point.

Volume at 2 p.m. was 2,685,000 shares, against Friday's 2,734,000 at the same time.

Howard Smith paper jumped 8 1/2 points and Canada Life Assurance and Donnell and Mudge were up 5 points. Loblaw B advanced 4 1/2 points. Shawinigan, International Paper and Ford A moved ahead 2 points. Confederated Life, dropped 7 points. Imperial Oil, International Metal A and Trans-Mountain were down a point.

International Nickel and Falconbridge added 1/2 point each among senior base metals. Hudson Bay was up 1/2. Juniors were mostly mixed with Mogul up 15 cents and several issues ahead 10 cents. Temagami was down 45 cents. Uranium was lower with Algoma off 1 1/2 points. Rare Earths lost 30 cents. Gunnar was up 1/2.

Canadian Devonian added 20 cents among western oils. Fifteen-cent gains went to Canada Pipelines, Husky, Rio Placer and Canadian Southern. Triad dipped 20 cents.

Air Control Laws in U.S. Outmoded Say Crash Probers

GRAND CANYON, Ariz.—Are air control laws outmoded in the United States? Civil aeronautics board officials say maybe they are.

A senator who conducted a hearing during the weekend in the worst disaster in the history of commercial air travel says definitely they are.

This summary shaped up today following the House of Representatives commerce subcommittee's inquiry into the crash that killed 128 persons aboard Trans-World Airlines and United Airlines planes which collided and crashed last week.

Some of the suggestions developed by the hearing include controlled airways coast to coast, more ground communications stations, electronic warning systems for airliners and closer liaison between the CAB and civil aeronautics administration.

"The regulations need an overhaul," said Senator Oren Harris (Dem., Ark.) after a Las Vegas, Nev., hearing and a visit to the crash site.

David Halperin, chairman of the TWA central air safety committee of the Airline Pilots Association, said his group was "fully aware that the basic cause of this accident is directly attributable to the completely inadequate and obsolete air traffic control system."

The apparent collision between a TWA Super Constellation and a UAL DC-7 high

Funeral services were scheduled today at Flagstaff, Ariz., for 67 of the 70 persons killed in the crash of the TWA plane. About 250 relatives and friends of the victims were expected for the services, which will be conducted by clergymen of the Jewish, Catholic and Protestant faiths.

Five members of a nine-man house commerce subcommittee which held a hearing Saturday at Las Vegas, Nev., viewed the wreckage scene Sunday. They went by helicopter in and out of the canyon and then headed for Washington.

The Corporation of the District of Saanich
MUNICIPAL ENGINEER

Applications are invited for the position of Municipal Engineer for the Corporation of the District of Saanich, to succeed the present Engineer who will be retiring at the end of this year.

Duties include technical supervision of all phases of Municipal Engineering, design, construction and maintenance, together with the preparation of designs and specifications for tendering on construction of reinforced concrete structures, bridges, pump houses, sewers, waterworks, roads and sidewalks.

The person appointed will have supervision over a staff of approximately twelve engineers, assistants and technical personnel, five superintendents and a work force of 150.

Saanich is a district municipality of 38 square miles, with a population of some 35,000. There is very considerable activity in the development of subdivisions, and applicants are requested to indicate whether they hold the commission of a B.C. Land Surveyor.

Applicants must be fully registered with the Association of Professional Engineers in B.C. or must have diploma and experience entitling them to immediate registration upon being appointed.

Applications, giving full information as to age, marital status, training, experience, salary expected and date when available, are to be received by the Municipal Clerk, Royal Oak P.O., B.C., not later than 5:00 p.m. Monday, August 6th, 1956.

Arsonist Suspected In B.C. Fire

BRALORNE, B.C. (CP)—A $65,000 fire destroyed the Canadian Legion hall here early Sunday. Fire department officials said they suspect arson.

It took the volunteer fire brigade four hours to quell the blaze. Firemen said fire was burning in three different parts of the hall when they reached the scene, leading them to believe it was set deliberately.

The provincial fire marshal's office is expected to begin an investigation today.

Bralorne is 110 miles north of Vancouver.

Apartment-Type Rest Home For Arthritis

BURNABY, B.C. (CP)—The New Vista Society will begin construction next week here on a $55,000 apartment-type rest home for arthritis.

The 16-room building will accommodate wheelchair patients by having wide doorways and no stairs to climb. It will contain a hobby room and special place where treatment can be given to residents and arthritis living in the district. There will be four self-contained suites for couples and eight for single persons.

Mrs. Elsa Lambert, a wheelchair patient for 17 years, will be the site of the project to the society.

Ernest Winch, head of the New Vista Society, says one-third of the project's cost will be paid by the provincial government and the rest by the society.

Uninterrupted Dividends for 75 Years

Each year since its incorporation The Bell Telephone Company of Canada has provided an essential and constantly improving service for more and more people. The high quality of this service has enabled this outstanding utility company to earn and to pay dividends on its common shares in every year since 1881.

At the present time Bell Telephone shares may be purchased to yield about 4.25% — a very satisfactory return. There are two ways to buy: either by the purchase of outstanding shares, or through the purchase and exercise of the Rights recently offered to shareholders and which will expire July 27th.

Proper Safety Equipment Urged For Small Boats

A warning to small boat owners that they must maintain adequate fire fighting and life saving equipment on their craft was issued by RCMP over the weekend.

Inspector C. H. Harvey, officer commanding Victoria sub-division, said that many of the boats he had seen were without adequate fire fighting and life saving equipment.

All boats of less than 10 tons, or equipped with inboard or outboard motors of 10 horsepower or more must be licensed, it was pointed out.

Copies of a booklet containing all regulations affecting small boat owners can be obtained from RCMP detachments or customs or frcs.

NEW YORK

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market continued higher in fairly active trading late this afternoon. Prices were about at their best for the session as leading issues held on to gains and improved them in a number of cases.

Trading volume was estimated at 2,100,000 shares compared with 2,180,000 Friday.

The steel stocks edged above their early fractional gains as U.S. Steel and Bethlehem posted gains of a full point.

In the motor group, Chrysler drew interest and gained a point. Montgomery Ward and Sears Roebuck went ahead around a point of news that each company had reached sales records for June and the first five months of the year.

Washington Republicans Back Ike-Nixon

SEATTLE — Washington Republicans went on record unanimously Saturday for an Eisenhower-Nixon national ticket.

They took action at their state convention which, in effect, bound the 24 delegates and 24 alternates to vote for the re-nomination of Vice-President Nixon as well as President Eisenhower.

There was no argument on the national ticket. The Eisenhower endorsement was a foregone conclusion, and sentiment developed in advance to add Nixon. Washington's Gov. Arthur B. Langlie, unopposed for his party's nomination for the U.S. Senate, was given an ovation.

Capital City Board Boundaries From Malahat to Albert Head

The area under jurisdiction of the new Capital Improvement District Commission will extend as far as the closest border of Central Saanich, the base of the Malahat and the coast almost as far as Albert Head. Boundaries were set by the provincial cabinet last week. The 11-man district commission will plan beautification projects which will be carried out with provincial grants. Further areas may be included.

The area is defined as reaching north to the boundary between Saanich and Central Saanich extending west to Todd Inlet, down the middle of Finlayson Arm to Goldstream watershed then direct to the coast at Metchosin, a mile or two south of Albert Head. The commission includes representatives of Victoria, Saanich, Oak Bay and Esquimalt and various government departments.

Boy Scouts Scrub Vancouver Monuments

VANCOUVER (CP) — Four historical monuments here will get a scrubbing Tuesday night as part of a summer-long project of Boy Scouts in southeast Vancouver.

They are the Fraser Midden monument, the Simon Fraser monument, the Spanish explorers' monument and the Kit-silano beach flagpole.

DUKE FIXES GOAL

Humanistic Outlook Urged by Consort

OXFORD, England (Reuters).—The Duke of Edinburgh said today he saw no advantage in a prosperous and powerful nation if it achieved its position "at the expense of human freedom and happiness."

The Duke addressed some 300 men and women from almost every part of the Commonwealth at the opening of a Commonwealth conference on human problems in industry. He is president of the three-week conference.

"It may not be very easy to decide quite what we are aiming at in this modern world of ours," he said, "but whatever the target we must take into account that all people are primarily citizens and not just workers with a bit of private life."

The Duke suggested four basic ideas for the conference to develop:

1. Are there lessons from the past which can help overcome the problems of present industrialization?
2. Can the new industries of the Commonwealth help each other?
3. What things make for a good factory, a happy community and a satisfied individual?
4. What is the viewpoint in industrial problems of the board room, the factory floor, the labor union, and the research, production, and personnel departments?

"I make no claim whatsoever to any special knowledge of industrial problems—least of all of industrial relations which is a highly specialized subject in itself," he said.

"But the fact remains that I have probably seen more different kinds of industrial establishments than all of you put together—if not, it certainly seems like it sometimes."

"From cottage industry in Malta to aluminum smelting in British Columbia, from car assembly in New Zealand to locomotive workshops in Nigeria . . .

"From old industries like the potteries to the new iron ore works in northern Quebec, from mixed industry towns like the English Midlands to one-industry villages on the Welsh coalfields.

"At first it was all rather bewildering and strange, but slowly and by degrees I found myself making comparisons between the different places and works. . . .

"Later on I came to realize that a mine is a mine, a factory is a factory and a steelworks is a steelworks, whatever part of the world it is in."

The duke said the only noticeable difference was that some factories were happy and others depressing places to visit.

to the similarity in the weather conditions of the two days an even year apart, and called it a coincidence.

TENDENCY ONLY

"Our records of 57 degrees, though, show a slight temperature 'peak' on that day. The tendency is there, but it is not reliable," he said.

As examples he showed that in 1951 July 8 was sunny, warm and windy. In 1952 it was hot—"a really good day"—and in 1953 was coldish and windy. In 1954 July 8 was in a poor period, and produced only a 65-degree temperature and a choppy strait.

"There is a similarity, but it is not persistent," he said of the records through the years.

Although Muir had to be taken from the water almost within shouting distance of the United States shore, residents of Victoria and his home district of Saanich were unanimous in their praise of his 10-hour struggle.

OFFICIAL PRAISE

Reeve Arthur Ash sent a congratulatory telegram to Muir today on behalf of the residents of Saanich.

"I also telephoned him on my own behalf," the reeve said. "For having dogged determination alone he deserves to win."

Councillors J. Ronald Grant and George Austin of Saanich council had words of congratulation for the doughty swimmer.

"It was a gallant effort, and it was unfortunate that he was unable to finish," said Coun. Grant. "I wish him luck in any future effort."

"I felt badly that he couldn't finish," said Coun. Austin. "He's a swell fellow, and I certainly want to congratulate him. I really would have been happy if he'd made it."

One group of citizens that had nothing but praise for Muir were the Lake Hill businessmen and women who sponsored his previous strait attempt.

CALGARY (CP)—Governor

General Vincent Massey today gets a real taste of the wild western atmosphere of Calgary at stampede time, starting off a full day of activity by heading a two-hour parade and winding it up with a look at the chuck wagon races, perhaps the most exciting of all rodeo sports.

Mr. Massey and his party tasted western hospitality and beef Sunday, attending a breakfast party at a farm south of the city and an outdoor barbecue at the football stadium, and his secretary and son, Lionel Massey, said his excellency enjoyed every minute of it.

Today's schedule calls for the governor-general's party to lead the parade through downtown Calgary.

The weather was perfect, a sunny 75 degrees with just enough breeze to keep it comfortable. Mr. Massey soon fell into the swing of things, trading the black bowler hat he wore when he stepped from the plane Saturday for the white 10-gallon westerner that he received from the city of Calgary during his last visit here two years ago.

10 DAYS IN B.C.

The Calgary visit will end Tuesday when the governor-general's special railway coach leaves for Jasper and Prince Rupert, B.C., via Edmonton.

The party will spend 10 days in British Columbia.

Two records had already been broken before the world famous stampede got under way today. Officials of the exhibition and stampede reported that a total of 656 entries is a record since the yearly event was commenced in 1912. Last year, the total entry was 617.

The other mark that has been better is that of 103 entries for the steer decorating competition.

Arena director Don McLean said that the entry lists showed also that every major winner in the 1955 stampede had returned to defend their hard-won honors. Heading the list is Casey Tibbs of Fort Pierre, South Dakota, all-round champion.

No Change In Red China Stand—Nixon

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—Vice-President Richard Nixon flew home Sunday after declaring President Eisenhower was still firmly opposed to recognition of Red China and admission of Peking to the United Nations.

Any suggestion that the president had modified his position (U.S. recognition and UN membership for the Red regime) was false, he told Gen. Chiang Kai-Shek.

Expressing "admiration for your unyielding stand against communism," the message told Chiang "let there be no misapprehension about our own steadfastness in continuing to support the Republic of China."

"International communism alter its tactics from time to time but we have as yet no evidence of any change in its objectives," Eisenhower added. "The American people and government realize this."

Titonic Sinking

BREMERHAVEN, West Germany (Reuters)—Dr. Heinrich Wietfeldt, after long study, says he believes the real reason the British liner Titanic struck an iceberg in the Atlantic in 1912 was because the lookout had "night blindness." The night of April 5 that year was clear and the sea calm.

Threat by Turks Hits Cyprus Plan

LONDON (UP)—Reliable sources said today that Turkey has threatened to quit the North American Treaty organization and the Baghdad Pact if Britain goes through with her plan of self-rule for Cyprus.

Turkey's firm stand on the Cyprus question has forced Britain to redraft its earlier plan to offer self-rule to the strife-torn Mediterranean island, as well as a prospect of self-determination in 10 or 15 years.

This plan is now dead and a new one is being worked out, officials said.

Daring Choice Of Opera Well Rewarded

Stratford Opens
Week of Music

By BILL BOSS

STRATFORD, Ont. (CP)—A lusty, cynical commentary on woman's chastity, Benjamin Britten's opera, "The Rape of Lucretia," gave an exciting opening Saturday night to the Shakespearean festival's second annual season of music.

Sung in English by an outstanding cast, with a libretto that makes no concessions to the squeamish in evoking the licentious flavor of degenerate pre-Christian Rome, the opera swept a capacity audience to its feet in an ovation of praise at its conclusion.

The Metropolitan Opera's Regina Resnik was Lucretia, whose virtue was the talk of a Rome whose other leading citizens had wives with a taste for sex when hubby was at the wars.

Bass-baritone Jack Rubes was her husband, Collatinus, while Australian baritone Harry Mossfield, now of Toronto, was the rapist Etruscan Prince Tarquinius.

Soprano Jennie Tourel and tenor Jon Vickers of Regina and Vancouver were the female and male chorus, who explain, comment upon and at times even participate in its action.

The opera, written just 10 years ago, was a daring and imaginative choice to open the season's broad program embracing classical and contemporary serious music and a survey of 20th century jazz.

The rape arises from Tarquinius' disbelief that there exists in Rome a woman unsalable by his desire. He rides back from the campaigns, obtains shelter in her home on a pretext.

After the household has gone to bed he enters Lucretia's chamber where, after suitable protestation and wrestling, he beats out the candle with his sword.

Shamed Lucretia next morning dispatches a servant to her husband with an orchid, symbol of purity, ordering: "Tell him a Roman harlot sent it and tell him to ride straight to her." Collatinus returns, forgiving, but Lucretia stabs herself with his sword in remorse.

my side of the story

A continuing series
BY THE DUCHESS OF WINDSOR

Those were the circumstances of my leave-taking of the Fort, which had for so long been a place of enchantment, and of David.

The December night mist swiftly engulfed us, an intimation that the same darkness was closing around my hopes, my love, my life. France was my destination, but for me France at that hour meant the beginning of oblivion. I was sure that I would not come back, that I would never see England again.

The night ferry left from Newhaven at 10 o'clock. We had none too much time, and Perry Brownlow's chauffeur, Field, drove fast.

It was drizzling and the car windows were fogged over; every now and then a yellowish blur would tell me that we were passing through a town.

For a long time Perry and I sat together in silence. The parting had been deeply affecting, business and to see Mr. Baldwin; the scheme was for Perry to seek me out at the Fort during the King's absence.

Actually, the following morning, while I was packing, Perry, Walter Monckton and George Allen—all devoted partisans of the King's cause—into his library. Lord Beaverbrook had called them together, at this eleventh hour, in the hope of averting the constitutional crisis that was about to burst upon the country.

After dinner Lord Beaverbrook drew Walter Monckton, Esmond Harmsworth and George Allen—all devoted partisans of the King's cause—into his library. Lord Beaverbrook had called them together, at this eleventh hour, in the hope of averting the constitutional crisis that was about to burst upon the country.

Patricia, daughter of Dr. R. M. Petrie, director of the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory, and Mrs. Petrie, will meet other B.C. winners at Kelowna, and winners in the Pacific Northwest States, at Spokane, Wash.

The group will leave Friday on a zig-zagging bus tour of Canada and the U.S., with a stop-over in Ottawa to meet Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent.

They will spend a week in New York visiting the United Nations headquarters and proceed to Washington, where contest winners may have an audience with President Eisenhower.

Patricia will return home August 9. She will enter Grade 12 in Victoria High School next term.

Fats Domino, Bandsmen Flee As Rock and Roll Crowd Riots

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP)—Some 2,500 teenagers at a rock-and-roll dance staged a riot early Sunday that lasted an hour before a force of 75 officers got it under control.

Ten were arrested. Scores were injured slightly with bottle cuts, scratches and bruises. One dancer suffered a possible skull injury.

Fats Domino and his band, favorites of the rock and roll set, fled when the free-for-all brawl started.

"Everybody was at each other," said Charles Silva, owner of the Palomar. "Boys fought boys, and even girls. Girls were slugging boys and scratching one another."

Silva said the fighting started after someone hurled a beer bottle at the dancers on the floor.

RICHARD III
by WILLIAM SHAKESPEARE

"Count on among those who will be back for several more looks at Olivier's wonderful RICHARD III... It is, quite simply, the best film we have ever seen, the best color, the best Shakespeare, and the best Olivier"

Herbert Whitlock, Globe & Mail.

"Richard III is the best of Olivier and the best of Richards. Never has an actor come so close to breaking through a screen (without the help of 3-D) as does Olivier. He adds a new dimension to filmic projection"

Clyde Gilman, Telegram.

"Olivier's RICHARD III is the best Shakespearean film ever made by anyone"

'Teen-Age Motorist Blamed in Fatality

NANAIMO (BUP)—A teen-age driver was blamed Friday for the death of a Youbou youth, after his girl friend told a coroner's jury she had wrested the steering wheel from him.

The jury held that the death of Trevor Proteau June 30 was due to "undue care and attention by the driver, possibly aggravated by a fellow passenger grabbing the steering wheel."

Dr. Henry W. Lewis, coroner, took "undue care" in the verdict to mean that 18-year-old Kenneth Zawerucha was in trouble before 16-year-old Barbara May

A MESSAGE FROM R. O. MUNSON

Dear Friend:

Think of all the fun you'd have with your own miniature personal radio... the kind you've admired at ball games, picnics and other folks' summer cottages! Probably you've wanted one, but felt it was just "too expensive"... now you get one FREE!

Yes, I'll give you a powerful miniature portable radio... your gift from MAICO, just for helping yourself or someone else to enjoy BETTER HEARING!

I'm making this limited offer just because I'm so anxious for you to know about the marvelous new MAICO Hearing Aids.

If you are now wearing a hearing aid, either a Maico or some other kind and would like to enjoy better hearing with Maico's remarkable new hearing correction, I'll give you this personal radio with the purchase of a new Maico Hearing Aid. I give you one of these fine radios.

Remember, these colorful little radios are available only until August 31. We want you to have one!

Sincerely,
R. O. MUNSON

Fishing Boat Wreck Victim Identified

VANCOUVER (CP) — The body of a fisherman taken from a fishing boat wrecked off the west coast of Vancouver Island has been positively identified as that of Clarence Hagen, 41, of Seattle, RCAF Search and Rescue has reported here.

Hagen's body was taken to Sooke Inlet on Vancouver Island by a U.S. coast guard helicopter. It was identified by the pilot of the helicopter.

An RCAF officer said the coast guard now is sure that Hagen was the only man aboard the fishpacker, believed to be the LaVerne from Lake Union, Wash.

A lifeboat from Bamfield light station, on the west coast of Vancouver Island, had been dispatched earlier to search the shipwreck area, when it was believed another man had been on the boat and was missing.

Hagen left Seattle July 4, and it is believed his boat was wrecked four days ago.

Sands Mortuary brought the body to Victoria, and will forward it to Seattle tonight for burial. Hagen is survived by his widow and a son and daughter in Seattle.

"I want to thank my trainer Bud, and the radio station for being so patient with me. And Big Ben Laughren and Ove Witt."

Strait challenger Ben Laughren and Ove Witt, coach and manager, were aboard CKDA's vessel. It was Ove who worked over Bill's sore body when he was pulled aboard.

Despite all the fortitude in the world, Bill went under twice within minutes of the end.

He wouldn't come out, until absolutely beaten, water bruised and suffering.

Aboard the Chatham Chief he was wrapped in blankets and fed two sandwiches. Two vessels accompanied the swimmer, George Polson's Wen Sue and the radio boat.

Bill shook his head when asked about Marilyn Bell, due here in mid-July for a strait bid. "If she can stand the water..." he said, leaving his opinion hanging.

Sincerity of the swimmer is tops.

Said he: "My body was ready to come out of the water at Albert Head, but my mind wasn't. I had to muster courage to stay in."

To try and beat the cold, he was covered with whale grease. It didn't work.

Strange thing about strait swimming. The men in the water get periods of violent depression. It hit Bill off Albert Head. They feel so grim they want to sink and forget.

Genial Bill knows this from his previous attempts, and now fights it successfully.

His attempt came exactly a year to the day from the first successful crossing of the strait. Bert Thomas of Tacoma, Wash., made it in 11 hours and 10 minutes July 7, 1955.

40 Die in 'Quake

ATHENS, Greece (AP)—Earthquake and repeated tidal waves struck the Aegean Islands off southern Greece today, killing at least 46 persons.

The brunt of the quakes was felt by the island of Thera (Santorini), where 36 persons were reported dead, and 10, where at least 10 were said to have perished.

Four Killed In Accidents

VANCOUVER (BUP) — British Columbia's warm, sunny weekend claimed four lives in highway and drowning accidents.

In addition, a Vancouver man was killed in a car crash in North Dakota.

Lance-Bombardier Edward Magnusson, 21, 1153 Melville, Vancouver, was killed in North Dakota when the car in which he was riding with three other soldiers from Camp Shilo, Man., collided with a second vehicle.

Leonard Edgar Williams, a 22-year-old sawmill laborer from Wilson Creek, was killed instantly at midnight Saturday in a two-car crash near Sechart.

Walter Ivan, 40-year-old Wood-fibre resident, drowned when the boat in which he was fishing with two companions capsized in Goose-neck Lake. The other two men reached shore safely.

Terence William Knox, 25, of Oliver, was killed Saturday night near Princeton, when his car collided with a five-ton truck travelling in the opposite direction.

Death Penalty Before Lords

LONDON (Reuters) — The government told the House of Lords today it still is "clearly and unequivocally" in favor of retaining the death penalty for murder in Britain though the House of Commons has passed a bill to abolish hanging.

The lord chancellor, Lord Kilgair, announced this in the early stages of a two-day debate by the peers who are considered likely to oppose the Commons on the controversial issue.

If they do so by their vote on Tuesday night, the bill will be delayed a year.

The Victoria Cross was awarded 111 times during the Crimean campaign.

Two-Way Radios Warned Off Malahat Blast

Police, firemen, and others with two-way radio transmitters in their cars and trucks have been asked not to use them in the vicinity of a blast being prepared on the Malahat because they might accidentally fire the shot.

Campbell Bennett Ltd., contractors at work on the Malahat, are laying charges now, and will fire the blast at 5 a.m. Tuesday. They anticipate a road block until 8:30 a.m.

Since charges will be fired electrically, the transmitters may not be used. According to the Workmen's Compensation Board, it is possible for the sets to activate the firing system, causing a spark that will set off the whole rock face.

Engineers said the blast will not be large, but that an awkward rock formation and proximity to the highway may cause a fall that will require the full three and one-half hours to clear.

The rock to be removed is on Tunnel hill, one-half mile north of the road leading to Hall's boat house.

Boat owners have been requested to stay away from the west side of Finlayson arm from Hall's boat house to a point one mile north during the time of the blast.

Building Volume At Cowichan Up Over June, 1955

CHEMAINUS—Building permits issued by the Municipality of North Cowichan last month totalled $105,890 as compared with permit values of $70,140 for the month of June last year.

Value of building permits issued in the municipality during the first six months of this year is more than $500,000 higher than in the corresponding period last year. Permit values for the first six months of this year amount to $785,755 as compared to $225,799 in 1955.

Last month the municipality issued nine permits for new residences, three for repairs to residences, one for industrial construction, one for repairs to a commercial building, and several for general house repairs.

No More Classes; Shared Wealth, Schools Control, Labor Party Plan

VIOLENT THUNDERSTORMS FLOOD LONDON SUBWAY

LONDON (Reuters) — In a major policy statement the Labor party Saturday outlined a far-reaching "share-the-wealth" program it plans to enact the next time it takes office.

"We propose to redistribute wealth in such a way that its benefits may be enjoyed by the many instead of the few," it said in a statement entitled "towards equality."

"This involves first of all the limitation of large fortunes by taxation, secondly a transfer of wealth from private to public hands, and finally better distribution of wealth among individuals so that whilst great fortunes grow less numerous, ownership and saving become more widespread."

The party also said it was considering a tax on spending for the "wealthy minority," those with annual incomes of over £2,000. But the party confessed the scheme may prove impractical.

To transfer private property to public ownership, the party warned it might "collect estate duty in property as well as in cash."

The Laborites also promise to review existing tax laws in an effort to eliminate "loopholes" and "to restrict those exemptions and reliefs which are now being abused."

As an example of abuse, it singled out: the "top hat" pension scheme by which some businessmen write off tax-free sums for retirement.

The party also promises to reform the British educational system which, it said, leads only to inequality in society.

"A classless society and our present pattern of education cannot be reconciled," the statement concluded. "We can have one or the other but we cannot have both at the same time."

VIOLENT THUNDERSTORMS FLOOD LONDON SUBWAY

LONDON (Reuters) — Violent thunderstorms brought chaos to London during the early morning rush hour today when subways were flooded by the heaviest rainfall in 15 years.

A London observatory recorded two inches of rainfall in a three-hour period, just as suburbanites were starting to make their way to the city.

Several passengers fainted in one crowded subway train held 35 minutes between stations by floods. Train services were also halted and buses forced to make long detours.

The rain covered most of southern England following the warmest day of the year Sunday.

In France 20 persons died in bathing and boating accidents as the country sweltered through the third day of a heat wave today. Paris was warmer than Cannes with temperatures around 85 in the shade.
